SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS

Senior Class

ROONE ARLEDGE, B.A., Eu.

COLUMBUS, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 25; Weight 160; Height 6'

After two years' absence on account of the war, Arledge comes back asking his Alma Mater for a degree. The Class of '20 is indeed glad to claim him as one of its members.

Few Wake Foresters have outclassed this one in the class room, but still he has not sacrificed other college activities for books. His large cowboy hat is frequently seen on the campus and among those who visit the sho-fly. Arledge has shown himself to be a well-rounded man. He possesses a modest manner, but uses it in such a way that one likes him. His friends will watch his career with interest.

CLARENCE M. AUSTIN, LL.B., Eu.

CHARLOTTE, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 20; Weight 155; Height 6' 3"

"Slim" is this gentleman's name, by which he is most commonly known and which describes him. "Slim" possesses marked qualities. He is an orator of the most stirring and lofty eloquence, as attested on several occasions. Kindred to this ability, he has the uncontested distinction of being able to say more words per minute for a longer continuous period of time than anyone else in college, which is no small feat. In addition to these qualities, he is a good student, for amidst the maze of legal knowledge he is never lost. Last but not least, he has made a name for himself as our cheer leader for this year. When he is on the job the yelling always sounds as if we were winning, whether we are or not.

"Slim" will seek to be admitted to the bar this summer, and after he is we predict that he will make a name for himself.

Winner Freshman Medal, '17-'18; First Anniversary Debater, '18-'20; Cheer Leader, '18-'20; Member Honor Committee, '18-'19; Secretary and Treasurer Sophomore Class, '18-'19; President Law Class, '18-'20; Anniversary Marshal, '18-'19; Intercollegiate Debater, Wake Forest-Baylor Debate, '20.

Senior Class

EXUM DUVAL BANKS, B.A., Phi.

RALEIGH, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 27; Weight 165; Height 5' 11½"

Frequently referred to as "the best speaker in college," Ed Banks has also won his way into the hearts of his fellow students. Banks entered college in the fall of 1914, but was delayed two years. An envied reputation followed him from his high school, which he has never abandoned. The pursuit of his studies has been characterized by persistence and concentration. He is a man who, undertaking to do a thing, does it. He aspires to the topmost peak in success, and will not be satisfied till he has gained its summit. Why say more? These noble characteristics, combined with his straightforward and manly personality, are prophetic of a successful career.

Winner Sophomore Debaters' Medal, '16; Winner Junior Orators' Medal, '17; Intercollegiate Debater, Wake Forest-Baylor Debate, '17; Licensed Attorney, '20; Intercollegiate Debater, Wake Forest-Colgate Debate, '20.

ALFRED M. BLACK, B.A., Eu.

ASHEVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 25; Weight 146; Height 5' 10½"

This man came to us from Mars Hill two years ago, and after two years of thorough work takes his degree with the Class of '20. Cheerful in disposition, polite in manners, modest in demeanor, he is one of the most cultured members of the class. He has the ability to do things and throws himself into his work with an abandon that insures success. His raven hair, sparkling eyes—"black as a berry that grows on the thorn by the wayside"—pleasing smile, and graceful movements make a combination of attractions that damsels cannot resist. He goes to the Seminary for further study.

Senior Class

CHARLES S. BLACK, M.A., Eu.

NORWOOD, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 24; Weight 155; Height 5' 9"

Black is an easy-going fellow whose diligence in the class room gives him a high place in the estimation of the faculty. He is not only a student, but holds the position of instructor in chemistry in a creditable manner. He possesses the winning smile that brings a welcome in any circle that he chooses to move. As he launches into the sea of higher instruction we are confident that winds will inflate his sails and swift currents will speed his craft over the deep.

B.A., '18; Instructor in Chemistry, '19-'20.

JOHN MORRIS BLACKMON, B.A., Phi.

KERSHAW, SOUTH CAROLINA

Age 20; Weight 150; Height 5' 10"

"What is mine is yours" seems to be John's policy toward his friends. Certainly the heart of this lad from the state of Cole Blease is too big for his body. This big-heartedness has won for him the hearty esteem of all those who know him. There is no man in the student body better liked by his friends.

John is graduating at an early age, a testimonial of his ability. He intends to become a lawyer in the due course of time. We rather think, though, that his future lies in his marriage to some rich beauty and a consequent life of ease and indolence, so suited to his nature. Speaking of imagination, what do you think of the imagination of that girl who described the subject of this sketch as a "man of pointed features"? Judge from portrait.

Class Football, '16-'17; Class Basketball, '15-'19; Law Basketball, '19; Dramatic Club, '16-'17.

Senior Class

CHARLES W. BLANCHARD, B.A., Phi.

NEW BERN, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 24; Weight 135; Height 5' 6"

"Purp" is a fellow of excellent qualities. He is faithful in all his duties and indefatigable in his efforts. He entered college earlier than most of his present classmates, but his academic career was interrupted by two years of service in the World War. We are glad to welcome him back this session, and consider him a valuable addition to our class. Besides being a good student, he is a baseball player of no mean ability. We wish for him the best of luck, and we are sure that he will be successful as well as useful in life.

Captain Scrub Football Team, '13; Captain Scrub Baseball Team, '14; Member Varsity Football Squad, '14; Member Varsity Baseball Squad, '15.

HEYWARD J. BLACKMON, B.S., Med.

KERSHAW, SOUTH CAROLINA

Age 22; Weight 135; Height 5' 6"

H. J. came to us two years ago with a B.A. from Furman. Although he has only been here for such a short time, we have known him long enough to come to appreciate his admirable qualities. As a medical student he stands high in his class work. He is a good mixer, well known in the student body, and liked by all. Although he never neglects his college work, he occasionally mingles among the fair ones, and from all appearances he ranks high there, also.

Medical Class Baseball, '19; Member William Edgar Marshall Society, Secretary '19-'20; Tennis Manager, '19-'20.

Senior Class

HENRY CLAY BREWER, B.A., Phi.

KINSTON, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 22; Weight 145; Height 5' 7"

"Foxy" is pre-eminently one of the boys. No matter what breaks loose that concerns his class, his society, his team, or his college, it is only necessary to secure a point of vantage and observe for a few moments and you will see "Foxy." He has been ex-communicated by the "Amalgamated Sons of Rest," but is no griod, being a member of the "Drug Store Guard." In the spring he dons his uniform, oils his glove, and jogs out to the athletic field, where he upholds the honor of the college. Our best wishes go with this genial lad. His industry and good nature insure his future.

CHARLES E. BREWER, B.A., Phi.

REIDSVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 23; Weight 150; Height 5' 9"

C. E. possesses the qualities of a king among the ladies, but these are not all. Regardless of the suggestions of the moon, as the shades of night fall he has confined himself to his room more than one would suspect and made an excellent record throughout his college career. His sunny disposition has made him a friend to every man on the campus, and having recently satisfied Judge Clark, we have no doubts as to his future.

Licensed Attorney, '20.

Senior Class

DEWEY H. BRIDGER, B.A., Eu.

BLADENBORO, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 20; Weight 180; Height 6'

Dewey entered as a Freshman with the majority of our class and has stuck with us for four years. He chose medicine for his life work, and during the past two years midnight has frequently found him hard at it. In spite of being a hard worker, Dewey is a great believer in mixing pleasure with work, so his spare moments are always spent off the campus. However, pleasure never interferes with business, because whether the quiz is oral or written, he has the goods. Our best wishes follow him as he goes to Jefferson next year to complete work for the M.D.

LUTHER J. BRITT, LL.B., Phi.

LUMBERTON, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 23; Weight 175; Height 5' 7"

"Mud" has continued with us from the preceding graduating class in order to take his law degree. He distinguished himself as a sort of political boss during his undergraduate days, for it was unanimously conceded that he ran his society pretty much to suit himself. He has served as its representative many times, as shown in his list of honors. "Mud" has also distinguished himself as a speaker, for his deep bass voice has many times thrilled an audience. In addition to these capacities, he has that characteristic, very rare in these days, of thriftiness. All of these qualities combined will make for success in the legal world, and we wish him fame and prosperity.

B.A., '19; Licensed Attorney, '20.

Senior Class

BONNIE DAVID BUNN, B.A., Phi.

SPRING HOPE, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 26; Weight 165; Height 5' 9½"

Here is a man whose face is not his only recommendation. Though quiet and unassuming, he is very energetic and dependable. He is recognized by all who know him as being a gentleman of true worth. While with us Bonnie has done consistent work and has shown unusual faithfulness in all of his duties. He is numbered among those who served their country during the World War. He is a natural born teacher, and we predict for him much success in this, his chosen profession. As is usually the case, a hidden cord will soon entwine his heart with "hers."

Track Team, '16-'17; Chief Marshal, Anniversary, '18; Leader Bible Study Class, '17; Vice-President Teachers' Class, '20; Member Dramatic Club, '18.

HENRY V. BURDEN, M.A., Eu.

AULANDER, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 23; Weight 165; Height 6'

This skyscraper as a newish was one of the select number who won the precious ointment of the Sophomores. Since that time he has constantly gained favor among all that he comes in contact with. His high moral standard and lofty ideals have won for him the admiration and respect of the entire student body. The Class of '20 is proud to claim him, and we expect to hear from him later.

B.A., '18.

Senior Class

ROBERT PASCHAL BURNS, LL.B., Phi.

ROXBORO, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 21; Weight 156; Height 5' 9½"

Burns came into possession of his B.A. degree last year, and he is with us this term to complete his law studies. He has distinguished himself as being one of the best students in college. This year, in addition to his law studies, he has been instilling knowledge of history into the heads of Freshmen, which takes a very able man, indeed.

"Bobbie" is an all-round good fellow, highly esteemed by teachers and fellow students, for he is open, generous and interesting. When he has anything to say, people stop and listen, because he is sane and level-headed, except when he is in love. The feminine tribe holds a great attraction for him, especially when he is leading the Glee Club on its trips.

He will seek admittance to the legal bar this summer, and we wish him a career of happiness and prosperity.

Instructor in History, '19-'20; Manager Glee Club, '19-'20.

WILLIAM GASTON CAMP, B.A., Eu.

GAFFNEY, SOUTH CAROLINA

Age 23; Weight 136; Height 5' 6"

Camp is a man of strong character, sound judgment and earnest consecration. Entering college a bit late in life and overcoming numerous difficulties, he undoubtedly deserves much credit. Since coming into our midst he has done good work and at the same time has served several churches in the surrounding community. Yet he has found time to mingle with the boys, and our associations with him have been truly beneficial to us. Wherever he may go, you can be assured that his highest ambition is to serve God by feeding His sheep. His friends—and that includes all who know him—wish him Godspeed.

President of Ministerial Class, '19-'20.

Senior Class

M. K. CARSWELL, B.A., Phi.

MORGANTON, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 28; Weight 130; Height 5' 7"

Carswell is a man who has cheerfully and faithfully performed all his duties. He is a gentle, serious fellow who consumes his time attending to his own affairs and never bothers with worries of any kind, either his own or those of other people. He has taken his studies seriously and proved a model of persistence. Having many obstacles to overcome to take a college course, he deserves a lot of credit for what he has done. The voices in the higher sunlit fields call him on, and we wish him well.

ALFRED L. CHAPLIN, B.A., Eu.

COLUMBIA, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 23; Weight 130; Height 5' 4"

Chaplin is a man who has the qualities of a winner. He is one of the neatest little packages we have in our midst. Honesty, cheerfulness, frankness and persistence are his marked characteristics. After three years with us, he holds out his hands for a diploma. He has played well the role of a student, and his unique personality has won many friends for him. Chaplin is quiet and unassuming, but few excel him in scholarship. His unassuming good manners and unfeigned sincerity will do his people good as he goes among them and "he of their wicked ways shall them admonish, and before them set the paths of righteousness."

Member Dramatic Club, '17.

Senior Class

STEENIE CHAPLIN, B.A., Med., Eu.

COLUMBIA, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 22; Weight 155; Height 5' 6"

Steenie was one of the bunch who first passed through the college arch four years ago, with his eye set hard and fast on Commencement, 1920, and the B.A. that it might bring. Since that day he has diligently toiled toward that end, oftentimes studying far into the night and then arising while his neighbors still slept. Quiet and unassuming, he has the admirable knack of making you like him, and, having once gained his friendship, no sacrifice on his part is too great for you. He will no doubt acquire a host of friends in the medical profession.

Sophomore Class Baseball, '18; Captain Medical Class Baseball, '19; Marshal Medical Society, '19-'20; Treasurer Medical Class, '20.

LEVI SPURGEON CLARK, B.A., Phi.

CHANOLER, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 27; Weight 190; Height 6'

In Clark the Ministerial Class boasts a man who is a regular good fellow "for a' that." Clark has the wonderful faculty of treading absolutely in the straight and virtuous path and at the same time being neither a stickler nor a prude. He has the capacity for tolerating the apparent foibles of others—a thing which is such a great asset in getting close to men.

He is a speaker and thinker of splendid ability, and some day, no doubt, his magnificent voice will flow from one of our largest pulpits. He has only one weakness apparently. That is "Wise," but maybe some day "Wise" will share the domicile behind the pulpit.

Senior Class

FORREST W. CLONTS, B.A., Eu.

LAKELAND, FLORIDA

Age 22; Weight 145; Height 5' 9"

This gentleman, ordinarily known as "Nepo," hails from the sunny clime of Florida. He came here three years ago, after spending one year at the University of Florida. "Nepo" has made a reputation for himself among teachers and students as a consistent worker and a man to be relied on. He is a quiet fellow, but he is of the sort who make their ability recognized without the necessity of noise.

He is the kind of fellow that one desires permanent acquaintance with, for he is generous, companionable and one in whom you may place confidence.

We understand that he intends to enter the consular service. Wherever he is placed, he will make Uncle Sam a good man, and we heartily wish him abundant success.

Assistant in Political Economy, '19; Member of Political Science Club, '19; Member Student Senate, '20; President Political Science Club, '20.

EDWARD F. CULLOM, B.A., Eu.

RALEIGH, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 22; Weight 165; Height 5' 10"

"Folly," "Edward," "Edward Lee," "Eddie Boy," et cetera, as he is variously known to different females scattered over the state, deserves the high admiration of every fellow student, for one who is as absolutely unselfish, generous, and willing to aid one in need, as he is, undoubtedly has acquired the great cardinal virtue of charity to all. And Cullom receives this much-deserved admiration, as attested by his popularity.

He is a man not only of a big heart, but also of attainments to be envied. He is a good student and speaker, a pianist of natural ability, and a licensed attorney. Law will be his future profession.

Member Glee Club and Orchestra, '16-'17-'18-'19-'20.

Senior Class

BAXTER CLYDE CULLER, B.A., Med. KERNERSVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 21; Weight 155; Height 5' 11½"

Look this boy straight in the eye and you will see something there which betrays the day when he and his broncho galloped over the Texan plains. Having taken his two years of pre-medical work at Simmons College, Texas, he came to us as a stranger in the fall of our Junior year. Not long did he remain as such, however, for in a remarkably short time he became the favorite of "the gang." Many have been the times when the stunts of this young comedian filled the halls with laughter. However, when the time comes for work, he does it with the same earnestness and marked success as exhibited in his more playful hours. Surely some choice place in the medical world is awaiting this energetic young man.

Manager Medical Baseball Team, '19; Treasurer William Edgar Marshall Medical Society, '19-'20; Poet Medical Class, '20.

LELTON B. DAWES, LL.B., Phi.

ELM CITY, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 22; Weight 135; Height 5' 8½"

"Old Man" is known to all of his friends as one of the most generous, best fellows alive, and at the same time as a thorough student and profound thinker. He is thoroughly unostentatious, but in some manner when he speaks his words carry unusual weight with them. He comes to us from among the B.A. graduates of '19, and this year has entered into the study of law with great zest. With his natural legal ability and the dignified air he acquires by wearing a certain hat at present in his possession, he can hardly fail to make good in his chosen profession, unless, perchance, the supply of such hats gives out.

There is one thing that the "Old Man" needs and that is his sleep. May I mention, in closing this obituary, that Dawes is a master hand with the female of the species, too, when he wishes to be.

B.A., '19; Licensed Attorney, '20.

LESTER J. DAWKINS, B.A., Eu.

MORVEN, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 28; Weight 185; Height 5' 9"

If there is a busier man in college than "Tubby," we have yet to find him. Since the verdant days of Freshmanhood he has been conspicuous for his enterprise and geniality, and at present is as indispensable an adjunct to the college as Dr. Tom or Shorty's confectionery establishment. Besides making good grades on a course by no means light, Lester has found time to ring the college bell, sell school supplies, and publish a college directory. Furthermore, he has the distinction of being one of the few men on the hill who can cut a fellow student's hair without opposition from the Seate Committee.

Class Football, '15-'16-'17; Football Squad, '16-'17; Class Baseball, '16-'17; Track Squad, '19; Annual Interscholastic Declamation Contest, '19-'20.

CHARLES B. DESHAZO, LL.B., Eu.

SELMA, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 22; Weight 145; Height 5' 8½"

"Sheriff" DeShazo won fame by his wonderful activities in connection with the "moot court." He has captured the worst of criminals, brought them to the seat of justice, and maintained unexcelled discipline in every trial. DeShazo has a word for everybody and can make you feel at home anywhere. He is now a licensed attorney of North Carolina, and instead of sheriff of "Moot Court," we may soon learn that he is engaged in the defense of justice on our state and federal benches.

Licensed Attorney, '20.

Senior Class

GUTHRIE J. EARP, B.A., Phi.

KNIGHTDALE, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 24; Weight 157; Height 5' 8"

Earp entered the East Arch four years ago a verdant Freshman from Buie's Creek. He is one of the many promising students that this great school regularly sends into our midst. Earp showed during his first year, by successfully repelling the invasion of the "bloody" Sophs, that his main purpose here was to get an education. And he has been firm in that purpose. He has been a hard worker and diligent in all his duties. He has chosen as his life's work to serve mankind in the highest calling—the ministry.

WILLIAM MCK. EDWARDS, LL.B., Eu.

ASHEVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 25; Weight 168; Height 6' 3"

"Mac" was caught, roped and tied in the hills of old Buncombe and brought to Wake Forest to receive an education. Upon his arrival he was regarded as a bold, bad man, but time shows him to have "good will to all and malice towards none." He knows what he believes and why. He can argue even when there is nothing to argue about. Those who heard his anniversary oration say he is eloquent. He goes from us to his family and the practice of law in "The Land of the Sky." He will be an able defender of the G. O. P. in the Tenth District. He carries the confidence and respect of all.

Winner Sophomore Debaters' Medal, '19; Commencement Marshal, '19; Clerk of Mount Court, Summer of '19; Licensed Attorney, '19; President of Buncombe County Club, '19-'20; Class Testator, '20; Anniversary Orator, '20; Intercollegiate Debater, '20.

Senior Class

FORREST C. FEEZOR, B.A., Eu.

LINWOOD, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 27; Weight 190; Height 6' 1"

Feezor is one of the most versatile men in the Senior Class. He has entered almost every phase of college life and has proved his worth in all. Not only is he a good student, but as a speaker he ranks among the very best in college.

On the athletic field he is a hard and consistent worker, and his prowess as an athlete both in football and basketball have made him well known. His manly qualities, his pleasing personality, and his modest demeanor have won him many good friends, and his application to his studies has won him favor with the faculty. From such a formula as he presents we can get but one result—a man.

Anniversary Debater, '19; Intercollegiate Debater, Baylor University, '19; Treasurer Y. M. C. A., '18-'19; President Y. M. C. A., '19-'20; President Athletic Association, '19-'20; Historian Senior Class, '20; Delegate Des Moines Convention, '20; Freshman Debaters' Improvement Medal, '19; Varsity Basketball, '17-'18-'19; Member Debate Council, '17; Member Political Science Club, '17-'18-'19; Varsity Football, '17-'18-'19; Vice-President Ministerial Class, '18; Euzellian Orators' Medal, '19; Student Senate, '18; Intercollegiate Debater, Colgate, '20.

JOHN HAMILTON FLOYD, M.A., Eu.

KING'S MOUNTAIN, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 21; Weight 170; Height 6'

J. H. Floyd comes to us from King's Mountain, a gem of rare value from the hills. Not content with a B.A. degree, this spring he takes his M.A., for he says, "There is room at the top." Floyd is a man to be envied, both mentally and physically. Mentally he is equalled and surpassed by few. For three years he has hit the line on the football gridiron, each time making gains for the home team. In the inorganic world he is perfectly at home, since he has made chemistry a specialty. He will continue his study in the North.

Varsity Football, '18-'19-'20; Varsity Basketball, '18-'19-'20; Baseball Manager, '19; Member Lavoisier Chemical Society.

Senior Class

DOVER REESE FOUTS, B.A., Eu.

FRANKLIN, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 24; Weight 152; Height 5' 10½"

Here is the likeness of one of our best-looking mountaineers. Too diligent to be termed a sport, yet he is the embodiment of the industry, geniality and all-round development which one expects in a college man. His prowess in the gymnasium won for him the captaincy of the special gym class. Always alert, suave, cordial and quiet, he has many friends among the student body, and many of the fair ones of the state openly avow that he is handsome. With his law license already in his trunk, he goes, after Commencement, to his native hills to begin the practice of his profession.

Class Football, '17; Class Baseball, '18; Marshal Wake Forest-Emory and Henry Debate, '19; Member Special Gym Class, '16-'17-'18; Captain Special Gym Class, '19-'20; Vice-President Political Science Club, '19; Licensed Attorney, '20.

CARL PASCHAL GREAVES, B.A., Phi.

BOWLING GREEN, KENTUCKY

Age 20; Weight 135; Height 5' 10"

In college Greaves has been a worker of merit, congenial and good-natured. His big heart full of love for humanity, the zeal and manliness with which he goes about his work and his lofty ideals win for him among his fellow students respect and admiration. Quiet, reasonable and thoughtful of his purpose in life, he pursues his course. He is a good writer, contributing largely to our college paper and magazines. Possessing the traits of honesty and a willingness to work, we predict success for him in any field.

Sophomore Marshal, Anniversary Day, '18; Sophomore Debaters' Medal, '19; Howler Staff, '19; Secretary Society Day Debate, '19; Old Gold and Black Staff, '19-'20; Political Science Club, '19-'20.

Senior Class

ONSLow T. GLENN, B.A., Phi.

ROUGEMONT, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 25; Weight 150; Height 5' 10"

Upright, straightforward and prepossessing is the President of the Class of '20. Glenn takes his work as most men take medicine—with a serious end in view—and we see that he is right. At the Raleigh debate he slew arguments like Samson the Danite slew the wicked men of Gath. It is said that the judges tumbled over one another to render their decision, and that a half hour later a fair damsel in the audience delivered her decision—also favorable. He is one of the class that snatched a license from the Supreme Court in February, and will practice law.

Intercollegiate Debater, Wake Forest-Emory and Henry Debate, '19; Intersectional Debater, '16-'17; Society Day Orator, '19; Member Y. M. C. A. Cabinet, '19-'20; Member Political Science Club, '19-'20; Secretary Law Class, Summer of '19; Assistant Librarian, '19-'20; Anniversary Marshal, '17; Member State Declamation Contest Committee, '19-'20; Member Debate Council, '19-'20; President Senior Class, '20; Licensed Attorney, January, '20.

SPURGEON C. GLOSSON, B.A., Phi.

MANNDALE, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 26; Weight 140; Height 5' 5"

Every student knows that Glosson and "Br'er Rabbit" are from Chatham. Quiet as a lamb, harmless as a dove, his sterling qualities have won friends galore in the college. His business here was to get an education, and he has applied himself strictly to his business. He has done excellent work in the class room and found time to supply at some churches, where he is held in high esteem. His influence will lift men to the higher sunlit fields, for he wears "the white flower of a blameless life."

Senior Class

JESSE S. GREEN, B.A., Phi.

THOMASVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 20; Weight 160; Height 5' 10"

In Jesse we find a good, substantial fellow that can be depended upon at all times. He is not a fellow that is continually making a noise, but on the showdown he always delivers the goods. Although he has not entered the field of political action, he has ever shown himself loyal to all college activities. One thing that has especially impressed us about him is his ability to master large tasks in a short time. Among his classmates are to be found men who have burned more midnight oil and spent more hours of weary toil on difficult subjects. But in the class room, few, if any, have excelled him.

Associate Editor Old Gold and Black, '19-'20; Member of Political Science Club, '18-'19-'20; Class Football, '16-'17; Reporter Old Gold and Black, '17-'18; Vice-President Davidson County Club, '19-'20.

NEWTON E. GRESHAM, B.A., Phi.

BEULAVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 24; Weight 155; Height 5' 8"

When this youngster came to Wake Forest the grass yearned for another color, but it was only a short time until he became conspicuous from a different angle, and today it is hard to find so many good traits in so small a bundle anywhere else. He is an energetic participant in all phases of college life. In politics, literature or religion Gresham is perfectly at home, but he has wisely chosen the highest calling and will be a wonderful influence for good.

Commencement Marshal, '17; Editor-in-Chief of The Student, '19-'20; President Anniversary, '20; President Duplin County Club, '20; Poet Sophomore Class, '18; Manager Baseball, '20.

Senior Class

RALEIGH H. GRIFFIN, B.A., Eu.

WOODLAND, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 20; Weight 150; Height 5' 5"

Griffin cannot be called a bookworm, neither is he a loafer, but being a firm believer in the doctrine of association as half of college life, he strikes a happy medium. Upon entering school he fell victim to Dr. Barnes' phrenology, when it was learned that he was destined to become a good student. He is a jolly good fellow and goes with the wishes of all into the success that awaits him.

C. RAYMOND HAMRICK, B.A., Eu.

RUTHERFORDTON, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 21; Weight 165; Height 5' 11"

C. R. is a capital fellow, modest in manner and mind. In every particular we have found him an all-round college man. His work in the class room has been good and he has loyally supported all college activities. During his four years here he has been an excellent worker in his literary society. His successful management of the Student shows us that he is an able business man.

Class Football, '17; Class Baseball, '18; Class Basketball, '19; Member Debate Council, '19-'20; Member Senate Committee, '19-'20; President Rutherford County Club, '18-'19-'20; President Berean Class, '19; Chief Commencement Marshal, '19; Marshal Wake Forest-Baylor Debate at Raleigh, '19; Member Y. ## Senior Class

HENRY ARTHUR HELMS, B.A., Eu.

INDIAN TRAIL, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 24; Weight 150; Height 5' 10"

Behold a man whose affability and pleasantness are unquestioned, who always greets you with a contagious smile and a cheerful word. He may have had some difficulties during his college career, but he has emerged from them all a distinct victor. During the four years here his college work has been of a high order. In his chosen profession of teaching his students will have a model worthy of emulation, and along with his ability to impart knowledge will radiate elements of genuine manhood. It is not easy to say good-bye to such a fine fellow.

Member Honor Committee, '19-'20; Secretary Teachers' Class, '19-'20.

JAMES M. HERNDON, B.A., Phi.

APEX, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 23; Weight 170; Height 5' 9"

"Mack," as he is familiarly known among the students, compels the admiration of all who know him. Thoroughly conscientious at all times; frank when frankness is needed; quiet when quietness is better—a man of convictions not thwarted by unfair means. As a scholar J. M. is seldom excelled. Hard problems at all times appear more attractive to him than the flippant trifles so often admired. As an outfielder in the baseball realm he has no equal at Wake Forest. Not only has he this enviable record at Wake Forest, but authorities time after time have declared him to be the best in the state. We predict for him an unqualified success in his chosen profession—banking.

Basketball Squad, '17-'18; Varsity Baseball, '16-'17-'18.

Senior Class

FERDIE LORENZO HIPPS, B.A., Eu.

TRUST, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 26; Weight 170; Height 5' 8"

Sturdy and strong, broad-shouldered and deep-chested, this Saxon of the hills may most fittingly covet a heritage similar to that of Caleb, the son of Jephunneh, the sainted mountaineer whose name has come down to us from holy writ. Paradoxical as it may seem—for he is a minister—Ferdie hails from Madison County, the martial blood of whose sons has won for it the sobriquet of "Bloody Madison." But Ferdie is no pacifist, for as assistant chaplain in one of the regiments of the Wildcat Division he spent twelve months "over there" strafing the Huns. Like many others of his comrades, however, he has returned to the pursuits of peace and plans to preach the gospel in his native heath.

DAVID B. JOHNSON, LL.B., Phi.

WHITE OAK, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 25; Weight 158; Height 6' 1"

After having seen active service overseas, Johnson returns to us this year to receive his law degree with his classmates who entered in '16. Incidentally, he was a successful applicant to the Supreme Court in January for permission to hang out his shingle, and we surmise that the near future will find him busily engaged in righting wrong and injustice wherever they may occur. Genial, sociable and pleasant, Johnson has the innate ability to make friends, and we predict for him an outstanding position in his chosen profession.

Marshal Wake Forest-Randolph-Macon Debate, '17; Society Day Debater, '18; Sheriff of Moot Court, '17-'18; Secretary Student Senate, '20; Member of Interscholastic Declamation Committee, '20; Vice-President Law Class, '19-'20.

F. J. LANCASTER, B.A., Med., Eu.

LEXINGTON, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 21; Weight 171; Height 5' 11½"

"Lank" is one of the best known Meds on the hill and has a host of friends and admirers. In almost every detail he is the prototype of the student of Materia Medica—he has the placid contentment, the well-filled waist line, the surgeon's touch, "an' ever'thing."

As will be noted from his photograph, Mother Nature has been generous with "Lank" in the formation of his anatomy and physiognomy and he bears the reputation of being handsome. Particularly does this opinion obtain with the fair sex, toward whom he ever possesses a soft feeling. F. J. is most sure to command a lucrative practice and will no doubt retire early with a large income.

HENRY L. LANGSTON, B.A., Phi.

GREENVILLE, SOUTH CAROLINA

Age 26; Weight 172; Height 5' 11"

"Hank" is a typical college man, being a close student, an athlete, and general mixer. He is quite a favorite, especially with the Freshmen, who take their much-needed exercise under his supervision as gymnasium director. He is an ex-service man and has won considerable distinction for meritorious service in Italy. The Italian government has awarded him the Merito di Guerra.

Langston is pre-eminently a man's man. His prowess as an athlete and magnetic personality will win success wherever he goes.

Senior Class

HARRY W. LEE, B.A., Phi.

KINSTON, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 20; Weight 148; Height 5' 6"

As well as being a student of no mean ability, Harry has taken a very active part in all class and departmental athletics since the eventful day when he received the forward pass and fell across the line, giving us newish a 6 to 0 victory over the Sophs of '16. His ability as a student has received recognition in his appointment as assistant in the Department of Physiology. Liked by all, success in the future is assured.

J. HENRY LEROY, JR., B.A., Eu.

ELIZABETH CITY, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 21; Weight 155; Height 5' 11"

Here is the man who managed the business end of this number of the HOWLER, which goes to prove that he is a man of rare caliber. LeRoy has shown himself to be a student of marked ability in both law and letters. He has also been one of his class's chief upholders in inter-class athletics.

LeRoy is the sort of person that one wishes for a friend, for he is open-hearted and one to be relied on.

He received his law license this spring and intends to practice law in the future. His many friends hope and predict for him great success in his chosen profession.

ROYALL T. LILES, B.A., Med., Eu.

WINGATE, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 23; Weight 140; Height 5' 9"

Father Time and Mother Nature have mutually co-operated in the production of "R. T.," for he is a good-looking youth, a polished speaker, a splendid student, and "a prince of good fellows." Although a medical student, he has shown a decided interest in literary work and has always been a consistent society worker. His oration on last Society Day was a good one. Incidentally, he is quite an athlete and has made a good showing in both basketball and baseball. "R. T." possesses all the requisites of a good doctor, and we bespeak for him the greatest success in his life profession.

WILLIAM M. LOVELACE, B.A., Eu.

MOORESBORO, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 26; Weight 130; Height 5' 11"

Lovelace was forced to be absent from college last year, and consequently he was unable to graduate with the Class of '19, as he had expected. But what was their great loss turned out to be our great gain. He is one of the most able members of his class. As a student he is excellent. In the forensic circles he ranks high and has won distinction as a debater of quality.

He has chosen law as his profession, and we believe great things await him. It seems he possesses every qualification necessary for a successful career as an attorney.

ROGER P. MARSHALL, B.A., Eu.

RALEIGH, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 20; Weight 145; Height 5' 6"

Although Roger has been with us only three years, he has not failed to command the esteem and respect of everyone with whom he has been associated. He is a writer of no mean ability, as demonstrated by the quality and number of his productions in the Student. As business manager of Old Gold and Black he has done much toward putting that publication again on a sound basis. Roger has been a loyal supporter of every phase of college life, and we shall watch with interest the progress of this thinker in whatever field he may enter.

Business Manager of Old Gold and Black, '19-'20.

ROBERT A. McINTYRE, LL.B., Eu.

LUMBERTON, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 20; Weight 160; Height 5' 10"

Here is a fellow who, when he goes anywhere, people know it. He isn't bashful a bit, but, on the contrary, he is quite at home anywhere he is. We would not pick him out as a model of studiousness, or as being very bookish, in spite of his glasses. But still he is of the sort that get along without that quality, for he has a good head on his shoulders, which he can use when he wants to. This is what is needed more than anything else to make a good lawyer, which he intends to become this summer. We predict for him, therefore, great success in the legal profession.

Senior Class

ELTON M. MITCHELL, B.A., Eu.
YOUNGVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 25; Weight 120; Height 5' 6"

Elton is a good-natured fellow and liked by all who come in contact with him. He does not stay with us all the time, as he lives only four miles from the hill, but we see him enough to know that he is a gentleman in the real sense of the word. Mitchell is rather quiet, but he possesses the qualities that win, and a bright future awaits him.

Prophet Teachers' Class, '20.

B. ELLIS MORRIS, B.A., Phi.
WAKE FOREST, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 30; Weight 160; Height 5' 11"

B. E. Morris, another preacher who has been with us for the past four years. A hail-and-hardy friend, well-met. With a strong personality, firm in character and faith, Morris gives promise of being a pathfinder for others. As for brass or gas, he is not lacking in either. And many times he even indulges in oratory and debate, while through this organ he attempts to melt all wills into his. Vision is our birthright, and he seems to have found a vision of duty early in life. And while magnifying this conception of life, he is determining his place in life. Morris is a married student, but this has not kept him from being one of the boys. To see him is to know him, and you are made to exclaim, "Give us more men of his type!"

Secretary Declamation Contest Committee, '19-'20; Chief Marshal Anniversary, '19-'20.

Senior Class

ARCHIE DAVID ODOM, LL.B., Phi.

NASHVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 25; Weight 145; Height 5' 7"

Archie is one of the most popular men in college. Unassuming and unostentatious, he has not sought to pry into the affairs of others; at the same time he has been an ardent supporter of every wholesome branch of college life. Wearied long since of single life, Archie went to Tennessee last Christmas to claim his affinity. He says that the married life is one of incomparable bliss. A veteran of the World War and already a licensed attorney, he is destined to be a leader of men wherever he goes. His will indeed be a happy and useful life.

Society Day Debater, '16; Licensed Attorney, '19.

JOHN BUNYAN ODUM, LL.B., Phi.

PEMBROKE, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 23; Weight 150; Height 5' 8"

Genial, affable, smiling, with a voice that is like that of Shakespeare's Cordelia, "ever soft, gentle and low," "J. B." is the type of fellow whom we all delight to meet. His is one of the most pleasing and winsome personalities at Wake Forest, and his circle of friends is a wide one.

Athletics and oratory are his specialties. As both player and manager in basketball he displayed interest and skill to a rare degree, while in the latter sphere he has earned an enviable record, his Society Day oration last autumn being a superb one. Although temporarily a Georgian, "J. B." is a Tarheel and plans to remain in the "Old North State" to practice law.

Senior Class

HUBERT E. OLIVE, LL.B., Phi.

CLAYTON, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 24; Weight 180; Height 5' 10"

"Jock" is among the class which Addison calls "Men of Parts." His gallantry has won many friends among the fair ones of the state; on the gridiron he hits the line like a Gallic battering-ram; on the campus his "genial flow of soul" makes him a favorite; and as a debater he reminds one of Burke before Parliament, or Demosthenes by the sea. He was among the first to join the colors and served as a commissioned officer in France. Upon his return he made the football team in a "walk" and snatched his license from the Supreme Court in January. He is the type that corporations delight in capturing.

B.A., '18; Licensed Attorney, '20.

W. GLADSTONE PITTMAN, B.A., Eu.

GATES, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 20; Weight 157; Height 5' 10"

"Yes, 'Creepy' is at the drug store playing a new 'rag' on the Victrola." And there he was, pulling a cigar and doing a shimmy to the music. By the way, the only reason "Creepy" didn't make the varsity basketball team was the fact that he paused frequently to execute the Virginia Daredevil. He never has the "blues" and distributes a contagious laugh—hence his popularity with femininity. Seriously, "Gladstone" is an industrious student. Not content with a B.A., he wisely intends to return for an LL.B. We confidently hope he will make a reputation like that of his English namesake.

RALPH DURHAM POE, B.A., Phi.

APEX, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 23; Weight 143; Height 5' 9½"

In this sturdy son of Wake County we discern all of the qualities of a true gentleman—politeness, dignity, kindness and strength. He makes up his mind with deliberation and proceeds with unflinching courage to attain his end. During the time that he has been with us he has achieved much, and his honors show that his activities have been well balanced. Nor should we forget that in the recent conflict he served as an officer in the army. "Jap" is truly a royal fellow—one whom we shall miss. He is destined to be successful in business, in love, and in everything that he undertakes.

Junior Editor Howler, '19; Chief Marshal Randolph-Macon-Wake Forest Intercollegiate Debate, '19; Member Y. M. C. A. Cabinet, '18-'19-'20; Assistant Librarian, '19-'20; Member of State Declamation Contest Committee, '18-'19; Chairman State Declamation Contest Committee, '19-'20; Editor-in-Chief Howler, '20; President of Debate Council, '19-'20.

ERWIN H. POTTS, B.A., Eu.

PINEVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 25; Weight 160; Height 6' 1"

Here is a man who smiles and smiles and will not sigh. Always congenial, with a word for all, he has won friends on every hand. You can see by his honors that his activities have been broad in scope, while he has been particularly faithful in religious and forensic matters. Erwin asserts repeatedly that he has so far proved immune to Cupid's darts. Later, however, he will learn—even as others have learned—that he cannot escape the fascination of the inevitable. He is well fitted for the ministry, and though success surely awaits him, we hate to part with such a genial friend.

Class Footbal, '17; Vice-President Berean Class, '18; President Student B. Y. P. U., '18-'19; Manager Hodnett Club, '19-'20; Vice-President Mecklenburg County Club, '20.

Senior Class

HANSON D. POWERS, B.A., Phi.

WILLARD, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 24; Weight 160; Height 5' 11"

Powers is a splendid fellow in every way. Faithful in all his obligations, clean in all his activities, we can but admire him. He has done good, all-round work and has been a loyal supporter of all college activities. Incidentally, he has served his country well, having been awarded a lieutenant's commission while in the army. Powers cannot claim that he is absolutely unsusceptible to "heart trouble," for he has been known to speak eloquently of love at times. After using the "hickory stick" for a while, he will devote himself to the ministry. We believe that he will be a worthy leader of the flock.

Class Baseball, '18-'20; Treasurer Teachers' Society, '19-'20; Assistant Examiner, '19-'20.

JAMES LOUIS PRICE, B.A., Eu.

STANTONSBURG, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 27; Weight 180; Height 6'

Opposite this sketch you see the likeness of a man who has been busy since the very first of his college career. Besides making creditable marks on his work, he has done quite a bit of preaching. As a student he is diligent and persistent in his efforts to win success and to equip himself to serve mankind. Price is very quiet and unassuming, and in his every act we can see that he is a man of principle and character. He, unlike so many of us so early in life, has already fallen a willing victim to Cupid's darts. We hope for him remarkable success in his endeavor to better his fellowmen by preaching as well as living the gospel.

Senior Class

SHAW MCD. PRUETTE, LL.B., Eu.

CHARLOTTE, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 21; Weight 170; Height 5' 10"

Whether on the gridiron as a member of the football team, on the stage as a member of the Glee Club, or in the parlor as a member of the "lady-killer gang," Shaw is equal to the occasion. As a second tenor on the Glee Club his work has been excellent. His solo, "Peter Gray," has received great applause from large audiences in various towns of North and South Carolina.

He is a jolly good fellow, well known in the student body, and held in high esteem by all. In law, his chosen profession, we believe he will succeed.

Varsity Basketball, '18; Glee Club, '17-'18-'19; Treasurer, Senior Class, '20; Vice-President Class, '17; President Mecklenburg County Club, '20; Gym Team, '20.

GUY BLAISDELL RHODES, B.A., Eu.

COLUMBIA, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 23; Weight 148; Height 5' 8½"

Rhodes has many sterling qualities. However, we are especially proud of him because of his diligence and energy in all his work. The faculty and his fellow students alike recognize him as a leader in his classes and faithful in all his duties. He is also a very earnest worker in his society, being always at his post of duty. Although Guy is preparing himself for the ministry, he will pursue some other line of work for a year or two, after which he will take a course at Columbia University before beginning his studies at the Seminary.

Society Day Marshal, '17.

Senior Class

HERRICK MILTON ROLAND, B.A., Eu.

BURNSVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 24; Weight 152; Height 5' 10"

Being of a quiet, manly nature, and reserved, Roland has made no great stir among us. Find him whenever and wherever you will, and in every case you will find him modest, cheerful, and full of optimism. He came to us with a pleasant smile, and in the course of events he answered his country's call to arms in the late World War. Returning from France, he resumed his college work with courage and determination to prepare himself for his chosen profession as a teacher. His untiring efforts bespeak for him great success.

J. MCK. SCARBOROUGH, LL.B., Eu.

CHARLOTTE, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 22; Weight 160; Height 5' 9"

In Scarborough the Class of '20 boasts a man of individuality and various talents. "Red's" cranium is distinctly individual, both on top and within. Whether on economics or law class, directing his band, playing some prank on "Wop," or joking "Creepy" Pittman, or waltzing some girl about the ballroom floor in that particularly distinctive style of his, his wits seemingly are never asleep. You will immediately judge from the preceding exposition that "Red" is a man of ability as well as individuality. His cornet is known throughout the state through his work on the College Glee Club and Orchestra. He is a lawyer by profession, having received his license during his Sophomore year.

Licensed Attorney, '19; Vice-President Law Class, '20; Class Baseball; Class Football; Class Basketball; Member College Glee Club and Orchestra; Musical Director of College Band.

Senior Class

LORENZO SCOTT, LL.B., Phi.

ROCKY POINT, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 28; Weight 140; Height 5' 11"

"Lodie" hails from the peanut section of the state. He came here as a green Freshman, but with a firm determination. Through exceptional humor and "dry" wit he has won a unique place in the estimation of the entire student body. After you meet him and hear his "line" you'll have something to remember. He is just the kind of fellow to cheer you up.

Scott is also a gentleman "learned in the law," having won the state license last August. And if you chance to go to Wilmington, N. C., you'll be greeted by his "shingle" and striking accomplishments in the legal profession.

Chief Marshal Commencement, '19; Class Baseball, '19; Licensed Attorney, '19.

HENRY THOMAS SHANKS, M.A., Phi.

HENDERSON, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 24; Weight 142; Height 5' 9"

"Marse Henry" graduated at Wake Forest in the spring of '18, but returned, after a year's absence as yeoman in Uncle Sam's navy, to take his M.A. He is a shark in that branch of science so fatal to many first-year gentlemen, namely, mathematics, and hence Prof. Jones made him instructor this year. No one that has essayed this important role during recent years at W. F. C. has been more popular with his pupils than Prof. Shanks, for he seasons justice with mercy and tempers the wind to the shorn lamb, as it were.

Henry T. is a quiet, gentlemanly, scholarly fellow, and has a bright future before him as a teacher.

B.A., '18; Member Political Science Club, '20; Instructor Mathematics, '20.

Senior Class

HUGH PRESTON SMITH, B.A., Phi.

M'CULLERS, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 27; Weight 142; Height 5' 11½"

One has only to look into the face of this good fellow in order to realize that he is a gentleman of true worth. His pleasing bearing, sound judgment, and unquestioned ability have won for him laurels in practically every phase of college life. He is an interesting writer and a convincing speaker, and ranks high in scholarship. Be it said to his credit that he saw service in France during the World War. Probably Smith had no choice about the matter, but he is a natural-born ladies' man. He goes forth to instruct the rising generation, and in his profession he will undoubtedly excel.

Varsity Track Team, '15-'17, '19-'20; President Freshman Class, '15-'16; Class Baseball and Basketball, '15-'17, '19-'20; Manager Track Team, '19-'20; President Teachers' Class, '19-'20; Cross-Country Run Medal, '16-'17.

ENNIS CALVIN STATON, B.A., Eu.

NEW LONDON, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 24; Weight 160; Height 5' 10"

Quiet, modest and unassuming, with "the elements gently mixed in him," Staton exemplifies the truth of the saying, "The bravest are the tenderest." As a member of the Sixth Marines, he was one of the first to fight, and so gallantly and unselfishly did he conduct himself that he received a citation from Uncle Sam "for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service."

Staton is "a good egg," and everybody likes him. He is one of the type that has no enemies, for he attends strictly to his own business and envies no man his good fortune. E. C. is a specialist in chemistry, and the probabilities are that he will essay the role of professor in this important branch of service when he leaves the hill. The future most assuredly will be rosete for one of his personality.

Class Football, '15-'16; Secretary Teachers' Class; Vice-President Lavoisier Chemical Society, '19-'20.

Senior Class

ALFRED P. STEPHENS, B.A., Phi.

BOARDMAN, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 24, Weight 155; Height 5' 8"

This is another one of those ambitious, persistent students who, since the day of the lamented Carlyle, have been coming to us from Robeson County. Work is his passion and his recreation. When you see him ambling across the campus he knows where he is going and why. And after three years here, he holds out his hands for a diploma. He has made his own way through high school and college. Such men are our glory. He has already begun his work as a pastor and achieved success. His untiring energy is the guarantee of his future.

Winner Freshman Debater's Medal; Anniversary Debater, '20.

PHILIP DAVID STOUT, B.A., Eu.

JOHNSON CITY, TENNESSEE

Age 26; Weight 160; Height 5' 11"

Here is Tennessee's only representative in the graduating class, and a worthy one he is. He first came to us in '15, and after two years in Vanderbilt and one in service, he manifests his superior judgment by coming back for his degree. He is a medical student, and with forceps and dissecting knife and a defunct citizen he delights in showing his skill as an artisan. If he loves you, he is yours; if he loves you not, he'll let you be. His power as a student is seen in the fact that he has finished the work for the M.A. degree. His sunny disposition will aid him to dispel the gloom of the sick room.

Track Squad, '15-'16-'17; President Tennessee Club, '19-'20.

Senior Class

ROY WILLIAM SULLIVAN, B.S., Eu.

PINNACLE, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 21; Weight 156; Height 6'

This lank youth came to us from the shadow of Pilot Mountain, and this peak seems to have imparted some of its loftiness and quiet strength to his ambitions and purpose. Without ostentation, egotism or guile, he is dubbed "Sky" by his friends. He is at times troubled with "blushes," but the Southern maiden of his choice will no doubt remove this crimson color from his face with her kisses. He is an example of the maxim, "In quietness there is strength." He has specialized in chemistry and his work as assistant has demonstrated his genuine worth.

Class Football, '17; Department Baseball, '19; Member Lavender Chemical Society, '17-'20; President Lavender Chemical Society, '19; Assistant in Chemistry, '19-'20.

WALTER L. TATUM, B.A., Med., Eu.

SALISBURY, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 20; Weight 160; Height 5' 11"

For four long years Tatum has been persistently trying to convince us that "Salisbury is the place." Whether we have come to agree with him or not, we are at least grateful to that town for sending such a good fellow into our midst. In every respect he has shown himself a real college man. As a Freshman he was "fresh," as a Sophomore he was "bloody," as a Junior he was politically inclined, and as a Senior he has been dignified. He is popular with the faculty and the student body, and they have seen fit to place him in several responsible positions. We believe he will be able to "sling pills" effectively when he enters upon his life's profession.

Commencement Marshal, '17; Member Tennis Club, '16-'17-'18; Class Football, '16-'17; Dramatic Club, '17-'18; Member of William Edgar Marshall Medical Society; Prophet Medical Class, '18-'19; President of Junior Class; President of William Edgar Marshall Medical Society, '19-'20; Manager of Football, '19.

Senior Class

RICHARD H. TAYLOR, LL.B., Eu.

HOOKERTON, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 24; Weight 181; Height 5' 9"

"Dick" became one of our number in the fall of 1915. His personality, cheerful heart, and good nature have won for him a host of friends. When the "hare says" come, Dick finds the good side of things. He worries over nothing. He is "learned" in the law and expects to practice it after graduation here this spring. Along with his work "Dick" likes a good time. At the table he is second to none. At Meredith he has a "Heart" that will cheer him to his final "Destiny." We shall miss him from the "hill," but we wish him well in all he undertakes.

LLOYD W. TEAGUE, B.A., Eu.

TAYLORSVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 29; Weight 180; Height 5' 9"

If you want to have a good hearty laugh, why just speak a dozen words to this jolly fellow. He will certainly drive away your "blues." Teague has been out of college for three years doing pastoral work and serving as chaplain in the army during the World War. He distinguished himself during his Freshman year as best speaker in his society, and has proven faithful in all his college and ministerial duties. He hasn't yet found his "better half," but we believe he will before he completes his Seminary course, because he has oftentimes expressed his desire for help in his ministerial work.

Chaplain in U. S. Army, '18.

Senior Class

H. M. THOMPSON, B.S., Gen. Sci., Eu.

WAKE FOREST, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 19; Weight 140; Height 5' 8"

"He's little, but he's loud." Hugh is one of our most inquisitive, talkative and jolly little friends. He can ask more questions, especially on psychology, than any wise man could ever hope to answer. But he makes friends easily—always greeting you with a good smile. Hugh has done some good work since he has been with us, and especially on the basketball court, having made the varsity this year. We have never heard him say anything about his life work, but we feel sure that success awaits him if he doesn't allow Cupid to intervene too early in life.

Varsity Basketball, '20; Class Baseball, '18-'19; Member Chemical Society, '18-'19-'20; Chief Marshal Society Day, '19; President Wake County Club, '19-'20.

ELWYN J. TRUEBLOOD, B.A., Phi.

ELIZABETH CITY, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 24; Weight 150; Height 5' 8"

The handsome subject of this sketch, known to all as "E. J.," is a jolly good fellow who makes friends wherever he goes. The report of his fellow members in the Glee Club reveals the fact that he is especially adapted to love and music. He has shown his ability in his high-grade class work and as a teacher in the local high school. Trueblood is O. K.—a real student, firmly set in the fundamentals of his faith, and is destined to accomplish much good in the future.

Senior Class

JOHN CLYDE TWIGGS, B.A., Eu.

HIWASSEE, GEORGIA

Age 23; Weight 155; Height 5' 11"

Twiggs is one of the elect whom you like to meet—he is ever smiling. There is little venom or spleen in his nature, and his perennial fine humor would lead one to believe that he possesses a good liver. Perhaps the fact that he hails from Georgia, the land of peaches and watermelons, has had something to do with it.

"As the twig's bent the tree's inclined." If there is truth as well as poetry in this expression, we predict the growth of a strong, sturdy oak down South in Dixie, in which there will undoubtedly be several board feet of good timber.

Member A. E. F. Club.

THOMAS E. WALTERS, B.A., Eu.

GREENSBORO, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 28; Weight 178; Height 6' 1"

"Tom" is one of the best all-round students of the class, and when it comes to psychology nothing less than 100 per cent satisfies him. To those who stand for a square deal always, there is not a more desirable friend than "Tom." He is quiet, but with a pleasing personality his advance in the esteem of the students and faculty has been steady. Tom is a consecrated Christian and will doubtless distinguish himself in his field of service.

Assistant in English, '20; Member of Honor Committee, '20.

Senior Class

BENJAMIN T. WARD, LL.B., Eu. BELVIDERE, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 20; Weight 155; Height 5' 10"

Ward is one of the inheritances of this year's graduating class from last year's list of B. A. graduates. Having excelled in almost every academic field, and particularly in forensic, Bennie returned to us this year seeking new fields to conquer in the field of law, his profession-to-be. Being a post-graduate has not taken from him that optimistic frame of mind, that cheerfulness of disposition, that enthusiasm for all college activities which so characterized him during his academic days. We all know Ward's cheery laugh and rejoice in joining it, for it is contagious. Of late, though, sometimes Ben's face wears a rather woebegone expression. Some affaires d'amour worrying him, no doubt.

B.A., '19; Chairman Student Senate, '19-'20.

CASPER CARL WARREN, B.A., Eu. DUNN, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 23; Weight 165; Height 5' 10"

In C. C. Warren we have the model college student. To a rare degree he possesses one of the most priceless heritages that falls to the lot of any man—a pleasing personality. Enemies he has none. No one on the hill is a better mixer or a more congenial companion. He has held some of the highest honors which his fellow students could confer upon him, for his honesty, sincerity and capability are unquestioned.

Manager Freshman Baseball Team, '15; Class Football and Baseball, '15-'16; Manager Sophomore Football Team, '16; Assistant Manager Track Team, '16; Licensed Attorney, '18; Assistant in Law, '17; Manager Track, '17; Elected Anniversary Orator, '18; Chairman Honor Committee, '20; Member Y. Cabinet, '20; Class Orator, '20; Assistant Cheer Leader, '20; Captain Track, '20; Delegate to Student Convention, Des Moines, '20; Glee Club and Orchestra, '14-'15-'16-'17-'20; Varsity Track, '14-'15-'16-'17-'20.

Senior Class

LUBY A. WARRICK, B.A., Med., Phi.

COLOSBO, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 21; Weight 185; Height 5' 10"

If "Luby" has promised to do a thing, you may bank on its being done at the right time and in the prescribed manner, in spite of any doubts or misgivings you may entertain during the process. Easy-going and good-natured, he is just the kind of fellow you like at first sight and with whom you can thoroughly enjoy a few minutes of chatting. "Luby" likes the study of medicine better than anything else, even the fairer sex, and goes on to a medical college next year to complete his education. Our hearty good wishes follow him.

Freshman Football Team, '16; Junior Baseball Team, '19; Medical Baseball Team, '19; Member of William Edgar Marshall Medical Society, '18-'19-'20; Secretary of Medical Class, '19-'20.

G. F. WASHBURN, LL.B., Eu.

MICA, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 23; Weight 180; Height 5' 11"

Washburn is a promising young attorney who gets his LL.B. degree this year. He received the B.A. degree at the Commencement of '17, and soon went to France, where he remained until the signing of the armistice. Last fall he again entered college and began the pursuit of law. On January 26th he successfully passed the Supreme Court examination and was granted license. Finding it unnecessary for him to remain in college to get his degree, and being eager to begin his career as a lawyer, he immediately "hung out his shingle." While in school "Fred" won a host of friends, all of whom hope and believe that he will soon be enjoying a large and lucrative practice in his profession.

Licensed Attorney, '20.

Senior Class

H. M. WATSON, LL.B., Phi.

WALHOLLA, SOUTH CAROLINA

Age 21; Weight 150; Height 6' 1½"

This distinguished-looking gentleman comes from the Palmetto State and goes by the name of "Wop." Whether he is called this because of his looks we do not know, although it must be admitted that he is not a model of beauty. Yet we cannot judge a person by his exterior, for "Wop" is a man of many accomplishments. He can tell as big a yarn as anybody. He is a leading member of the campus brotherhood. To top it all, he is recognized as one of the most deeply learned among the students of the law, for he is never stumped on a question, and he can always argue as long as his opponent on any legal point.

"Wop" received his law license recently, and when he starts in to practice we wish him a career of success and prominence.

President Law Class, '18-'19; Member Honor Committee, '19-'20; Class Football, '17-'18-'19; Class Baseball, '17-'18-'19-'20; Prophet Senior Class, '20; Poet Law Class, '20.

CURTIS L. WEATHERS, B.A., Eu.

BUNN, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 21; Weight 150; Height 5' 7"

Weathers is a quiet sort of fellow who never makes unnecessary noise to bother other people. He does no sensational stunts in his books, but he goes on at a sure, steady rate and is one that the teacher can always count on. He has shown his dependability both as a student and in the other phases of college life, especially as editor of one of our publications.

He makes the sort of friend that one can rely on, and he is esteemed by both his teachers and his fellow students. It is his intention to enter into business, and we wish him good luck and success.

Member Franklin County Club, '17-'18; Old Gold and Black Staff, '18-'19; Marshal Randolph-Macon and Wake Forest Debate, '19; President Franklin County Club, '19-'20; Editor-in-Chief Wake Forest Student, '19-'20; Manager Teachers' Basketball Team, '19.

Senior Class

BRYAN CLINTON WEST, B.A., Phi.

KINSTON, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 20; Weight 145; Height 5' 10"

"Kit," as West is well nicknamed (he does not purr, however), hails from the thriving city of Kinston. By diligent application and a great reserve of natural ability, Kit has completed the work for the B.S. degree in chemistry in three years. He plans to return to Wake Forest next year, however, and take up the study of medicine.

West is a fellow whom we all like, and we wish for him the best which life has to give. May we mention, though, that he has one weakness? We will not say what it is, because tales must not be told out of school, and it might be dangerous to make his heart miss too many beats.

Class Baseball, '19; Treasurer of Chemical Society, '19; President of Chemical Society, '20.

WAYNE W. WILLIAMS, B.A., Eu.

BRYSON CITY, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 24; Weight 140; Height 6'

His gentle disposition, modest demeanor, and pleasing personality have won for him many friends. He is a splendid writer, a forceful speaker, and an exceptionally good student, and in his support of wholesome activities and forward movements he is unrelenting. Some radical changes have taken place in Williams' life recently. Entering the army, he won a captain's commission, being probably the youngest chaplain to be honored thus. But there is something more important. Last Christmas he surrendered to Cupid, leading his attractive sweetheart to the marriage altar. We predict for him a happy and useful career in his chosen work, the ministry.

Senior Class

LONNIE R. WILLIFORD, B.A., Phi.

FAYETTEVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 26; Weight 160; Height 5' 9"

Pure in thought and motive, clean in action, Cumberland County can be justly proud of this, her son. His sterling qualities have won for him the admiration of every student. There are few who excel Williford in scholarship and probably none who exercise more energy and persistence. He won the Freshman Improvement Medal in his society and has developed into a forceful speaker. For a while he served the cause of democracy in France. Lately Lonnie has cultivated an unwonted fondness for the gentler sex. He expects to teach, and his pupils will find in him an example worthy of emulation.

Freshman Improvement Medal, Phi. Society, '16; Anniversary Debater, '20; Intercollegiate Debater, '20.

C. T. WILKINSON, B.A., Med., Phi.

WAKE FOREST, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 21; Weight 126; Height 5' 5"

"Tab," as he is known by his numerous friends, is beyond a doubt the biggest sport in the Medical Class. Girls everywhere and mail on every train! Although small of stature, he seems to have the innate ability to make friends of all with whom he comes in contact, regardless of sex. As President of the Medical Class and Secretary of the Senior Class he has served us well, these honors reflecting the high esteem in which he is held by his classmates. Although residing in town, "Tab" has taken an active part in the various student activities. "Tab" goes to New York next year to complete work for the M.D., and we predict for him there the same degree of success as here.

Medical Basketball, '18-'19-'20; President Medical Class, '19-'20; Secretary Senior Class, '19-'20; Member John Marshall Medical Society.

Senior Class

R. W. WILKINSON, JR., B.A., Med.,
Phi.

WAKE FOREST, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 25; Weight 125; Height 5' 8"

"R. W." is one of the best known men in college. He is one of the local boys and has always been familiar with college life. He has a natural "bend" toward medicine, and his success as a doctor is assured. Believing that a man should bear all the marks of his profession, he has recently cultivated a moustache, and will doubtless, when he secures his license to practice medicine, further seek to decorate himself with another mark of his profession by "turning out" a goatee.

CHAPELL WILSON, B.A., Phi.

LUMBERTON, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 27; Weight 150; Height 5' 10"

Better known on the campus as "Woodrow," the subject of this sketch possessing a striking resemblance to the illustrious American whose cognomen he bears. Although he hails from down East, Chapell graduated from Mars Hill and has a host of friends in the "Land of the Sky."

He is a splendid student and a specialist in English, Shakespeare being his favorite. There is red blood in his veins, too, for he was a member of the A. E. F. "Woodrow" aspired to be a school teacher, and likewise in this he resembles his uncle. In view of the fact that he adheres strongly to the maxim, "Spare the rod and spoil the child," it is our opinion that he will make a brilliant success in the pedagogical field.

Senior Class

PERCY HOCUTT WILSON, B.A., Phi. FAIRMONT, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 26; Weight 160; Height 5' 4"

This man fulfills every requirement of a scholar. Quiet and unassuming during his college career, he has not sought college honors, yet he is recognized as a man of sound judgment and strong character.

Wilson's graduation was delayed two years by service in the army. He was a member of the noted "Thirtieth Division," in which his linguistic attainments were of service to his country and won him an introduction to the royalty of Luxemburg. As assistant in French he has conducted his work in a way that argues well for his future.

Commencement Marshal, '14; Instructor in French, '19-'26.

ELBERT E. WILSON, LL.B., Eu. ROSE HILL, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 25; Weight 165; Height 5' 11"

Here is one of our best and hardest-working lawyers. Although his college career has been broken into a number of times, he has "fought a good fight." We can justly be proud of him for his faithful services during the Great War. He enlisted in May, 1917, and served as first lieutenant in the air service in France for eighteen months. He is the owner of the German war dog "Trixie." His good work in college also shows his energetic spirit and ability to work. He successfully passed the Supreme Court examination in January, and we feel confident that success awaits him in his chosen profession.

Licensed Attorney, '20; Member College Band, '14 and '15; Anniversary Marshal, '15; Track Team, '14-'15, '19-'20; Assistant Track Manager, '20.

Senior Class

WILLIAM H. WOODY, B.A., Med., Eu.

WOODSDALE, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 21; Weight 172; Height 5' 10½"

Long ago, even when this embryonic Osler rode home from the plow astride his beast of burden, he dreamed of the day when he should be a real M.D., and right well has he wrought toward that end. "Jack's" circle of friends has increased with the time he has spent with us until it now includes both student body and faculty. As interne in the college hospital and assistant in pathology and bacteriology, almost innumerable duties have been his, but he is never in too big a hurry or too intent on his mission to fail to call a friendly greeting across the campus. Having the best wishes of all of us, we shall watch his future with interest.

Junior Editor Howler, '19; Treasurer Sophomore Class, '18; Junior Class Baseball, '19; Junior Class Prophet, '19; Medical Class Baseball, '19; Senior Editor Howler, '20; Member Marshall Medical Society, '19-'20; Assistant in Pathology and Bacteriology, '20; Hospital Interne, '20.

M. P. WRIGHT, B.A., Med., Phi.

WENDELL, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 22; Weight 178; Height 5' 10"

Behold this Wake County lad—an athlete of no mean ability and the kind of fellow you look at the second time. Since his first year he has taken a very active part in class and departmental athletics in all forms. Merrell is to be a doctor, receiving his B.A. in medicine this year, and will continue his work for the M.D. in some Northern school next year.

Freshman Football, '16; Varsity Football, '18; Class Baseball, '17-'18-'19-'20; Scrub Baseball, '17; Medical Basketball, '18-'19; Secretary Sophomore Class, '18; Manager Sophomore Baseball Team, '18; Treasurer Junior Class, '19; Anniversary Marshal, '18; Assistant Baseball Manager, '19; President Wake County Club, '20.

Senior Class

TYREE C. WYATT, B.S., Med., Phi.

WINTERVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 20; Weight 140; Height 5' 10"

T. C. is held in as high esteem as any man in college. He possesses an unbounded enthusiasm and perseverance, and is inspired with the power of a high resolve. In his chosen profession, the practice of medicine, he carries into his life's work the highest ethics and ideals of the profession. He is an interested and sympathetic supporter of all that tends to the upbuilding and comfort of mankind, and he leaves with the wish of all for abundant success.

President Agoga Class, '18; Assistant in Psychology, '18-'19; Manager of Lassiter Club, '18-'20; Vice-President Medical Class, '18-'19; Vice-President Junior Class, '18-'19; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet, '18-'19; Medical Society, '18-'20; Medical Baseball, '19; Vice-President Y. M. C. A., '19-'20; Member Senate Committee, '19-'20.

IRA LUTHER YEARBY, B.A., Phi.

WAKE FOREST, NORTH CAROLINA

Age 29; Weight 215; Height 5' 10"

Perhaps no fellow in college is better known or more popular than Yearby. Mature in thought, deliberate in action, pure in conduct, he has won the respect of faculty and students alike. He has been more fortunate than most of us, in that he has had a faithful companion to encourage him throughout his college course. While here he has connected himself with all wholesome activities, particularly distinguishing himself in the realm of intercollegiate forensics. He has already done quite a bit of preaching, and as he continues his work in the ministry we can but predict for him success wherever he may go.

Winner of Sophomore Improvement Medal; Member of Glee Club, '17-'18-'19-'20; Intercollegiate Debater; Member Debate Council, '19-'20; Anniversary Orator, '20.

Senior Class Poem

Dear Alma Mater, fate now bids us part;
Unwillingly, with hearts that throb and grieve,
    We take our leave.
Upon life's wondrous voyage we must start;
Lend us thy light as forth into the dark
    We now embark.

But ere we go, our adoration bear;
We love thy classic halls and campus green—
    Sights so serene.
To us thine ideals true are very dear;
We highly prize the bits of golden ore
    Plucked from thy store.

And journeying forth we oft shall think of thee—
Shall crave thy sacred nearness, feel thy power,
    Each passing hour.
For what you are, have been, and yet shall be,
We praise thee now and pledge allegiance true
    Our lifetime through.

POET.

Senior Class History

FROM the highest peaks of the Western Blue Ridge to the lowest swamps of Eastern Carolina there came to Wake Forest in September, 1916, a group of one hundred and forty fresh Freshmen. Not unlike other classes that had preceded us, in beginning our journey on the long road of Knowledge we found our first year of college life a little different from that of previous years. But this usual handicap did not deter, but rather stimulated us to succeed in college activities and honors.

Our first year saw us class champions in football and basketball. Not only were we conspicuous in athletics but also in literary and forensic realms. The college publications carried many articles from the pen of our classmates and the society halls rang with the echo of our voices.

The latter part of our first year saw the opening of the bloodiest struggle the world has ever known, and it is but just to say that there were no slackers among us. From the rank and file of our college life we answered the country's call to "Make the world safe for Democracy."

To a class with such a brilliant beginning the Sophomore year added continuous successes. Though our numbers had grown smaller during the months, we were still active in all college activities. Again we captured honors in class football and basketball, and as in the previous year, furnished the varsity with men who won fame and honor for their college, and the Class of 1920 in particular.

While our fellow classmates were nobly doing their part on the field of battle, we did not fail in our part at home, and every campaign for War Work, Red Cross, and Liberty Loan met with a ready response.

When we returned to the campus in September, 1918—as Juniors, our ranks still more depleted—we found our beloved college temporarily converted into a military training camp, our campus a drill field. But we were proud to be of aid to our government in battling with autocracy. And then came that glorious day, November 11th, which brought to us news of the close of the mighty conflict and the triumph of Democracy.

The opening of the spring term brought us again to real college life and we furnished to all varsity teams men who made our college athletics famous and won for us the State Baseball Championship. In the intercollegiate debates the Class of '20 sent out men who brought back unanimous decisions in their favor.

We come to our Senior year! And as we are about to set sail upon the sea of life, we still hold dear to our hearts the true ideals, noble ambitions and high aspirations which have characterized our whole college career.

This marks the real beginning of our history. The four years must serve only as a prelude. Future historians will cover the pages of their annals with a true and accurate record of our achievements, and to future generations we leave the privilege of according to us the praise and honor due for the lives we have lived.

And so we come to the close of our college career with merciful thanks to Him who has so blessed us in the days of extremity and hardship and ask His guidance over each of us, as we the battle of Life begin.

Last Will and Testament

E. the Class of Nineteen Hundred and Twenty, having plumed our wings for flight relative to our departure from this favored clime, being in full possession of a sound mind, memory and understanding, do make and publish this, our last Will and Testament, hereby revoking and declaring void any and all wills heretofore executed by us.

We direct that our funeral services be conducted by our friends and heirs, only enjoining that the funeral be carried on with all the dignity and pomp our social standing in the college circles may merit.

As to such estate as it has pleased the fates and our own vigilance to acquire, we dispose of the same as follows, viz:

I. We give and bequeath to the faculty a reprieve from hearing and considering our many petitions to which they have so faithfully and sympathetically given hearing from time to time, and at the same time withdrawing all ungranted petitions that may be before them at the time of our departure.

II. We give and bequeath to the College as a whole from our boundless storehouse, all the startling information and knowledge gained by our untiring perseverance, zeal and ingenuity, to their own use in the attempts to cope with the intellectual pioneers of all the classes junior to that of Nineteen Hundred and Twenty-three.

III. We give and bequeath to Doctor Tom's Woodological Laboratory the Latsiter House, the Wake Forest cafe, and the Gem Theatre, to be used in the furtherance of his task of keeping the college as warm in winter as in summer.

IV. We give and bequeath to the "Sky" Class as a whole the exclusive right to the handling of all booze on the Campus, which booze will include: wine, beer and "monkey rum." This right is not to be construed to mean that the "Skies" are not to buy, sell, drink and give away; and furthermore, that they shall have the exclusive right to mix and spike the punch for all social occasions in times to come.

V. We give to President Lewis' band of Freshmen the following advice, not through necessity but as a pledge of our friendship: Carefully scrutinize your underclassmen and you will see yourselves as others have seen you. It is our request that you treat them with the same loving care and fatherly protection that you have received at the hands of your upperclassmen. To you is given the duty of patrolling the campus after dark, of meeting the Shoo-fly and Number Twelve, and seeing that no comely maidens pass your way without the usual welcome; and seeing that the drug stores and movies never lack for customers.

VI. We give and bequeath to the Sophomore Class the exclusive right to accompany the week-end freight trains to and from Raleigh, Henderson and Franklinton, and also a monopoly on the affections of all out-of-town ladies whom they may meet.

VII. We give and bequeath to the Class of Nineteen Hundred and Twenty-one the following estate for the duration of their existence, with remainder to the Sophomore Class:

1. Senior honors.
2. Senior privileges; and just here we recommend most highly to those gentlemen who possess an innate desire and tendency to exercise freely their natural instincts, Doctor Sled's green pastures, where there may be flopping of ears and genuine enjoyment for all those who attend without the slightest disturbance or molestation to the common peace of mankind.
3. Senior dignity is always given over to the new-made Lords of the manor. We realize that this will be an awful strain on the nerves of the gay, handsome Juniors, but we hope that they will raise themselves to the occasion as few ever can.

VIII. The remainder of our property of whatsoever nature, character and quality it may be, not hereinbefore disposed of, we give and bequeath to our Dean for his sole use and benefit under this one proviso, that he keep on hand at all times an ample supply of stationery to keep delinquents informed of their Chapel and Gymnastic irregularities.

And we do hereby appoint and constitute the Dean sole executor of this, our last Will and Testament.

In Witness Whereof, We, the Class of Twenty, the testators, have to this, our Will, set our hand and Seal, this, the fourth day of April, Anno Domini One Thousand Nine Hundred and Twenty.

TESTATOR.

Senior Vote

WHEN the Class of Twenty met for the purpose of honoring its members there was a babble of voices heard from one end of the building to the other. Amidst the aroma of cigar, cigarette and pipe smoke and shouts of the candidates saying, "Vote for me," the election began.

The confusion was intense from the very beginning, lasting until the meeting was adjourned. In the beginning, J. H. LeRoy was declared the Most Popular. There was a close race for the place of Best Athlete, but Luby A. Warrick won over "Creepy" Pittman. "Creepy" was consoled with being elected the best dancer. The honor of being the Biggest Ladies' Man was voted to G. Earpe.

Dignity has a prominent place in the Class of 1920 in the manly carriage and characteristic pose of "Wop" Watson, who was declared to be the most dignified; grace in the handsome figure and person of P. Green, who was voted to be the Most Handsome; styles in the model of N. E. Gresham, the Best Dresser; knowledge in the work of Curtis Weathers, the Best Student; journalism in the writings of Helms, who was given the place of Best Writer; politics in the scheming ways of Camp, the Best Politician.

Walter Low Tatum was elected as Suffragette because he was an ardent supporter and was aided in his campaign by his girl. F. L. Hipps was honored as being the Best Orator the Class of '20 had, while A. P. Stephens was declared the Best Debater.

With such an array as that mentioned above, our class would naturally have been a little conceited had it not been for the continual problem of saving our name from the pitfalls dug by J. B. Odum, the Biggest Sport. G. A. Teague, the Biggest Roughneck; C. T. Wilkinson, the Class Giant; E. E. Mitchell, the Hardest Worker; and H. C. Brewer, the Most Optimistic, were ever to the rescue. Their task has been a big one, not for lack of finances, because "Tightwad" Woody was always found on the scene, but on account of the continual "Pulls" from "Kit" West, the Biggest Parasite, and H. J. Blackmon, the Most Pessimistic.

The election continued. Dewey Bridger, with his vamping ways, was declared to be the Most Lady-like; P. D. Stout, the Most Reserved and Modest. DeShazo, who holds an antipathy against the fair sex in general, due to some grammar school love affair, was elected as Woman Hater.

The meeting then closed, with one loud yell, proclaiming Potts as Campus Walker and D. B. Johnson the Biggest Loafer in the class.

Senior Class Prophecy

*If you can look into the seeds of Time
And say which grain will grow and which not,
Speak then to me, who neither beg nor fear
Your favors nor your hate.*

IP VAN WINKLE, perhaps with the exception of Ichabod Crane, was undoubtedly the greatest of Washington Irving's characters. Old Rip, to me, has always been a personage of uncommon interest, and from my youth up I have made the events of his life a profound study. Besides the fact that he was "an obedient and hen-pecked husband" and a confirmed gossip, Rip was heir to several other infirmities, one of which in particular is shared by the author of this sketch, who has essayed the role of foreteller and has endeavored to "look into the seeds of Time" and prognosticate the weal or woe of the Class of '20, namely, he was fond of shooting squirrels and wild pigeons. Oftentimes, with fowling-piece upon my shoulder, I have rambled over my native mountains in Western North Carolina just as old Rip perambulated among the far-famed Catskills in days of yore, and as the first Rip, was always accompanied by his trusted canine, Wolf; likewise, on all occasions the second Rip carried with him his faithful companion, to whom, because of his wonderful sagacity, he had given the cognomen of Erasmus. Being perhaps a bit more taken to learning than my great prototype, however, I never failed to take along with me on my venatic peregrinations a pocket edition of one of Shakespeare's plays, the works of the immortal bard being my favorite study.

On one particular occasion last autumn, I found myself on top of Clingman's Dome, which is the highest peak of the Smokies and the second highest of Eastern America, being only a few feet lower than Mount Mitchell itself. I had with me a copy of Macbeth, and feeling tired and worn, and desirous of substituting mental for physical exertion, I sat down on a mossy mound and began the perusal of this great tragedy. I had hardly begun reading, however, until my exhausted frame succumbed to Nature, and I proceeded to give sleep to my eyes and slumber to my eyelids. Long I lay there, how long I do not know, dreamily philosophizing upon Macbeth's inordinate ambition and the mysteries surrounding the three witches and wondering when, if ever, those "three should meet again" on this mundane sphere, when, lo and behold, my somniferous somnolence was suddenly interrupted by excruciating pains in my upper anatomical region which I was not slow in perceiving to arise from undue pressure upon the cilia which crowned my cranium. When fully awake, I found to my surprise that I was confronted by four of the foulest, ugliest, most hideous-looking creatures mortal man ever fastened oculars upon, three of which I recognized at once as the immortal trio associated with Macbeth, but the remaining member of the quartet was indeed not only persona non grata, but also persona incognita, to me.

Addressing myself to the foremost and apparent leader of the group, I exclaimed:

"What does this mean! Three of you are Macbeth's evil spirits, I know, but who is the fourth member of your party, and what is your mission here?"

With a screeching grunt and a significant gesture, the tallest and fiercest of the old hags replied:

"You have well surmised the truth as to my identity and that of my two sisters, and I shall be very glad to enlighten your mind as to our companion. This is the famous witch of Endor, whom Saul, the son of Kish, consulted when the fates were unpropitious to him. She has consented to confederate with us, and although we have not made our appearance to any of the inhabitants of earth in several centuries, we have, nevertheless, been looking on, and have been so impressed with the several abilities and lofty aspirations of the present Senior Class of Wake Forest College that we have all agreed to take part in human affairs once more and to become the patron saints of its four classes. My two sisters will assume the supervision of the lawyers and doctors, I will protect the teachers, while Miss Endor, who is especially fitted to take charge of the preachers, by reason of her Biblical association, will care for them. You apparently are a virtuous youth, and if you will not seek to commercialize our divinations we will disclose to you the destiny of each of these distinguished classes and will move forward the curtain on the arena of Time so as to reveal events far in the future."

Of course I gave my promise without hesitation, and thereupon the shaded spirit of the barristers opened her mouth and spoke, the gist of which was upon this wise:

She had been particularly interested in the lawyers this year because, without almost a single exception, all had aspired to enter politics and carve their names high in the niche of fame—a very singular yet worthy aspiration for those choosing such an avocation.

In the election of 1937 E. D. Banks was chosen for the gubernatorial chair by an overwhelming majority, and his administration was noted for its progressive ideals, particularly in the education of the descendants of Ham—the Ethiopians—and the elimination of moonshining, assault and battery, pear stealing, and chicken thievery.

The State Supreme Court carried on its roster the names of Chief Justice R. P. Burns, a most learned and righteous judge, and Associate Chief Justice C. E. Brewer, who is very a second Daniel come to judgment, while C. M. Austin, J. M. Blackman, L. J. Britt, and L. B. Dawes elevated the Superior Court circuit to a position of respect and influence never known before in the annals of North Carolina law.

In the year 1943, the U. S. became involved in war with Patagonia, and Senators D. B. Johnson and B. T. Ward were the champions of American participation. In the lower house, Speaker J. B. Odum and Representatives S. M. Pruette and J. M. Scarborough likewise made a determined fight for American rights.

Attorney DeShazo was the successful candidate for Secretary of State in 1933, while his intimate friend, G. F. Washburn, as member of the General Assembly from Mitchell, engineered through a bill providing a bounty of ten cents for the tails of skunks killed by his constituents.

Having served his day and generation faithfully and well, Judge Je'ter C. Pritchard fell asleep in 1940 and the Hon. William McKinley Edwards of Asheville became his successor as Circuit Court Judge.

The second witch, whose name I learned was Husselvec, had some interesting revelations concerning the Meds.

A serious epidemic of "flu," the first since 1920, broke out all over the country in 1929, with disastrous results, but happily for the nation, Dr. R. T. Liles, ably assisted by his former classmate, F. J. Lancaster, was able to invent a vaccine that nullified all of its fatal effects.

The State Board of Health, in compliance with an urgent appeal from the citizens of Swain County, who were alarmed over a rapid increase of hookworm within their borders, dispatched its three ablest experts in this pathological research, Doctors W. H. Woody, H. W. Lee, and H. J. Blackman, with microscopes, specimen cups, and other equipment to their relief. Attacking the majority of the worms while in the larva and pupa states, they so successfully eradicated these pests that today the hookworm in Western North Carolina is classed with the mastodon, the pithecanthropos, and other geologic specimens of an antiquated past.

Dr. P. D. Stout, one of New York's greatest surgeons, has just won immortal fame and incidentally pocketed ten million dollars by installing a new and improved stomach and epiglottis of his own manufacture in place of Rockefeller's worn-out and highly unsatisfactory gastronomic apparatus.

Old Ponce de Leon (the authority is good) broke asunder the manacles of death and rose exasperated from the tomb when the news was bruited abroad in purgatory that W. L. Tatum, an eminent scientist of Statesville, had concocted an aqua vitae in his laboratory which possessed the medicinal virtues of the Fountain of Youth. Dr. Tatum is said to be the greatest discoverer since Christopher Columbus.

Four members of the class have made their fortunes and reputations in improvements upon certain patent medicines: T. C. Wyatt, with Lydia E. Pinkman's Vegetable Compound; L. A. Warrick, with Wine of Cardui; D. H. Bridger, with Barker's Nerve and Bone Linament; and M. P. Wright, with Pink Pills for Pale People.

Benjamin Sowers is the most noted specialist in America in obstetrics, and S. Chaplin is a widely-known chiropodist.

The third witch, whose mission in Macbeth was to pronounce, by elocutionary process, the fateful warning, "Macbeth, Macbeth, Macbeth, beware of Macduff!" was ecstatic in her eulogy of the pedagogues.

As State Superintendent of Public Instruction, Chapell ("Woodrow") Wilson has made an enviable record, his tenure of office being noted for the establishment of fifty-three summer schools for ladies only.

H. A. Helms has recently returned to Wake Forest as professor of the new chair of Economy and Conservation. His lectures on the conservation of energy are both instructive and illuminating, and wherever he goes he is greeted by sympathetic and appreciative audiences.

Walter Camp, Chairman of the Pan-American Athletic Board, has recommended H. L. Langston as trainer of the American athletes who will compete in the Olympic games at Copenhagen in 1930.

R. D. Poe, of Crab Tree, N. C., has instituted a $10,000 damage suit against Nostrum Epictetus Gresham, in which the plaintiff alleges that a thoroughbred Holstein bull of his has been bitten by a rabid canine in the possession of the defendant. Upon expert testimony given by Prof. R. W. Sullivan, State Chemist, verdict was rendered in favor of the plaintiff, Prof. Sullivan securing $3,000 in the deal.

H. P. Smith is principal of the Round Hill Academy. His track team has just secured a great triumph over the Staton High School.

Since migrating to the "Land of the Sky," Prof. Henry T. Shanks, instructor in Mathematics at the Asheville High School, has gained 89 pounds in weight.

L. J. Dawkins, sanitary inspector at Fassifern, is making a howling success. L. J. is injuring his interests, however, by too strong an attachment to tonsorial and stationery salesmanship.

The witch of Endor, who in the days of the prophet Samuel had learned much of the nature of prophecy, was well qualified to "look into the seeds of Time" and tell just which ecclesiastical weeds would flourish, like Aaron's rod, and which not.

I was not at all surprised to learn that W. G. Camp, President of the Ministerial Class, was bidden to go up higher. He was chosen State Corresponding Secretary in 1939 and proceeded at once from the mountains of Cherokee to the storm-swept shores of Currituck in the interest of a cradle roll campaign.

Perhaps no theologian for a generation has aroused more comment than the Rt. Rev. L. S. Clark with his lectures on "Who Was Cain's Wife?" "Whence Cometh the Ethiopian?" "Shibboleth," "Joshua, the Son of Nun," "The Behemoth," "Solomon and His Wives," and "Peter and His Mother-in-law."

"Behold how great a matter a little fire kindleth." The entire brotherhood of the state were grieved to learn of the terrible tragedy which occurred in the mountains of Madison County when Ferdie Hipps decapitated a "Hard-Shell" who had insulted him in the midst of a heated argument upon the question, "Is foot-washing scriptural?"

B. E. Morris is a famous missionary in Ethiopia. American Baptists have just recently been shocked by the intelligence that he has divorced his Caucasian wife and espoused a descendant of the ancient Queen of Sheba.

Spurgeon's Tabernacle, London, has for its pastor Dr. I. L. Yearby. I regret very much to announce that this great man has lost much of his popularity by his advocacy of Home Rule for Ireland, however, and that he has incurred a tremendous debt upon his church by his capacious consumption of English "ta" (tea).

The Sandy Mush Church in the Buncombe Association recently extended a call to E. J. Trueblood, the philosophic pastor of Walnut Grove, but upon learning that he had taken unto himself a wife among the Philistines, the order was rescinded.

"Bill" Feezor, the distinguished cyclonic evangelist, is being questioned on his orthodoxy because he recently asserted that "Moses bucked the line through the wilderness of Judea."

Boom! boom! boom! Suddenly heaven's artillery began to thunder in the sky, and as the winds descended and the floods came, my sinister visitors vanished, like the crack of doom, amid the lightning's flash, and left me alone in my musings as to when we shall meet again—"in thunder, lightning, or in rain?"

JUNIOR CLASS

Junior Class History

It is with a feeling of pride that we pronounce the word "Juniors" and apply it to ourselves. We are proud in that time, application, and industry have brought us to that place where degrees do not look so impossible, and where we have some post by which to guide and regulate our future actions. However, a tinge of regret mellow our pride, for, as Juniors, we begin that initiation in wisdom, learning and dignity that soon will admit us into the fraternity of Seniors. Our Freshman days are over, with their freshness, fears, and attainments in prospectus. Gone, too, are those care-free Sophomore days we passed as lords of domain. But greater are the things that come to recompense us for our loss. The lesson that drug store and campus avail nothing with Wake Forest professors has been well learned, which gives an incentive to increased labor. The past has its lessons, the future has its store. Our minds can now overleap the intervening year that separates us from graduation, and this in itself induces us to more thorough application for service in the world.

September 3, 1917, saw the advent of one hundred and seventy-five Freshmen. Although perhaps as green as the verdure that grew in the Vales of Enna, the class throughout the year showed that it was not dead if green. Under the leadership of Rufus Hunter the class proved to be a valuable asset to all college sports and activities.

The fall of 1918 found many members of the Class of '21 serving in the Army. To those who returned to college, the S. A. T. C. offered a chance to serve, and with few exceptions, the whole class became a definite unit in that organization. The class was organized with C. P. Harris as President. Despite the demoralization caused by the S. A. T. C., the class, repleted by the return of many from the camps, was able to resume its activities. Besides doing its full part in those college activities in which every class participates, it exercised as well as possible those functions generally delegated to the Sophomore Class.

S. A. Duncan was chosen President of the Class of 1919. Among the seventy-five men in the present class are many men who would have received degrees before but for the war and other causes. The class recognizes in them a very important addition. This year, besides its usual contribution to athletics, the class was ably represented in Society Day and Anniversary programs.

In the past there is comfort, in the future there is hope.

SOPHOMORE CLASS

Sophomore Class History

At the beginning of our first year in Wake Forest it seemed as though we were destined to spend our four years in college without making any class history except that which would be made during war and carnage.

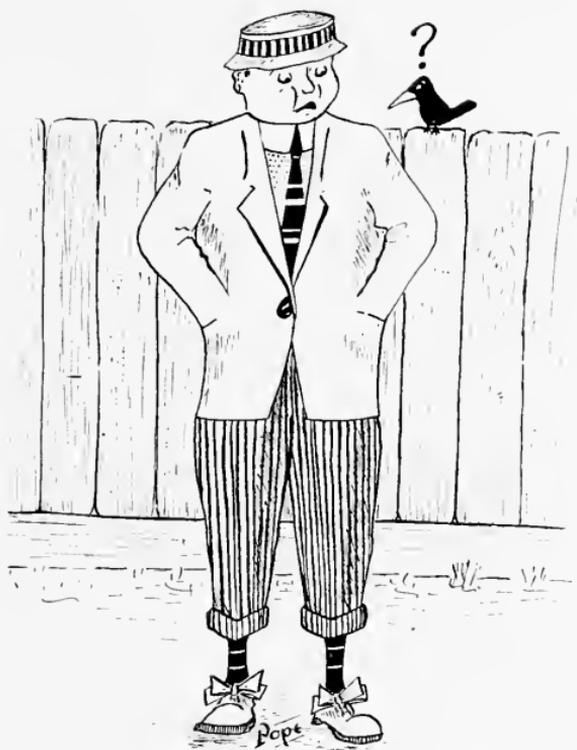

When we entered college in the fall of 1918 we were expected to perform the duties of a soldier rather than enter the college activities as our predecessors had done. But as the S. A. T. C. was disbanded in December, we came back at the opening of the new term with a determination to start anew the record for the Class of '22. It was then that our real class history began.

We quickly organized, with J. L. Memory as President, and began at once to find our duties and perform them. Our attention was soon turned to athletics. Here our first victory came when we won the class championship in basketball, while on the varsity teams our men "delivered the goods." Wall, Ellis, and Barnes were three leading men in baseball. In the track squad Newton, Edwards, Gaddy, Lee, Simmons and Howard brought victory for Old Gold and Black and won honor for their class by the wonderful work they did in track meets.

During the summer of 1919 the war clouds were rolled away and we entered college in September with a spirit of freedom which we had not felt before. Again, as in 1918, we were class champions in basketball. Then we turned to look upon the football squad and found Moore, Moss, Wall, Fulton and Taylor in the varsity line. The class football squad, with Carter as captain, were victors over the Freshmen by a score of 19 to 6. As in the spring of 1919, our men were again seen on the varsity baseball team doing honor to themselves and to their class.

Much of our success this year is due to the guidance of President "Red" Allsbrook, whose careful hand has guided us many times into success. For two years we have surmounted every difficulty as best we knew how. These two years have been years of "ups and downs," but because we have been the victors our determination is greater to go on with this same spirit of conquering difficulties.

FRESHMAN CLASS

Freshman Class History

PROBABLY the most varied group of individuals that has come to Wake Forest in recent years was the class of Freshmen that entered here on September 2, 1919. This aggregation consisted of all types, from the beardless high school youth, recently emerged from his knickerbockers, to the husky sailors from the Grand Fleet and the sturdy A. E. F. veteran. It must have been interesting to the Sophomores to see them stumbling from the train with a wide assortment of knapsacks, bundles and traveling bags. The more timid youths looked around in wonder and amazement; some of the braver and more experienced began to inquire the way to the dormitories and clubs. The upper classmen seemed to take much pride in answering all inquiries concerning both the history and geography of the place.

Owing to our numbers, it was impossible for the Sophomores to have a personal interview with all of us the first night, but those remaining were called upon the second night, and it was discovered that the class contained many talented men.

Near the close of the first month of school, the President of the Senior Class called a meeting for the purpose of class organization. Under his direction, the class officers were elected. At a later meeting, Miss Pearl Marley of Meredith College was elected Class Sponsor.

In athletics the Freshmen have made a good record. Several have made places on the varsity football team. The class is also represented in basketball, baseball and tennis. Five members of the Glee Club are from the Freshman Class. The class feels proud of its part in all college activities and our sympathetic upper classmen also share our gladness.

The first holiday of the year was Society Day. The puzzled expression on the faces of the Freshmen was quickly replaced by a smile, when they were informed that they, too, could have their girl friends here for the day. The girls came, the day was a success and great was the joy of the Freshmen. Thanksgiving was the next holiday. With the exception of a few who went to their homes, the Freshmen all went to Raleigh for the football game. There, by reason of their numbers and lung capacity, they were of immense value to "Slim Austin."

Next came the Christmas holidays, and the Freshmen rushed to their homes eager to relate to their loved ones many wonderful adventures and experiences. The New Year brought them back to Wake Forest minus the freshness they had in September. This time they came confident and self-reliant and began work shoulder to shoulder with their fellows.

Thus endeth the history of the class. Judging from the past, the class has every reason to hope for a bright future.

LAW CLASS

Law Class History

THE history of the law school at Wake Forest, even from its embryonic stage, has been replete with achievements; its annals a record of glory. Indeed, so many men have passed from its doors to positions of high trust in state and nation that the Law Department has almost become a synonym of success.

To the Historian of the Law Class of 1920 a great panorama of men are seen on the fall opening of the Law School, all drawn together by bonds of desire for legal knowledge. Never before in the history of the college had there been men of such diversity of experience. The school of law at Wake Forest had approved itself to the aspiring high school boy, and hither he directs his course. When the clouds of war were rolled back many American soldiers and sailors recognized the importance that law and international relations would play in the preservation of victory won, and turned to Wake Forest for efficient preparation.

Not only does the variety of the Law Class of 1920 consist of experience alone. In bulk (of flesh) Rudisell is nonpariel; the privilege of wearing standing collars and "little ole things" seems to have been incorporated in Judge Butler. Fresh and green, tall, slim, fat, short, married, and single, their common aim is a mastery of the law.

With an enrollment of over 200 men and twenty-five men preparing for the Supreme Court, the Law Class soon settled down to work. C. M. Austin was chosen to pilot the class across the bar.

Moot Court has also been of great service to the class. Early in the fall the societies passed a resolution that all Senior law students might be excused from society attendance in order that they might attend Moot Court regularly and be better fitted for their future work.

In college athletics law men have actively participated. The fighting spirit of the class is evinced by the work of such men as Pruette, Olive, Pierce, Fulton, and others on the gridiron. In all the college sports, law men are among the best.

Not only is the activity of the class confined to athletics. In the forensic world, Olive, Banks, Glenn and Britt have won laurels for their college.

In the Society Day exercises the Law Class was represented by Odum, Glenn; Anniversary by Austin, Hamrick and Edwards.

The record of the Wake Forest law men before the Supreme Court has been one unequaled by any other school in the state. In the Class of 1920 thirty men already have their licenses. In August twenty-three out of twenty-five applicants passed the court. In February twenty-five out of twenty-six were successful. For the year forty-eight of fifty-one men were granted their licenses. The record of the Class of 1920 speaks for itself, and no glowing eulogies, no high sounding praise can add to the lustre of the glory it has won.

MEDICAL CLASS

Medical Class History

THE Medical Class was organized in the fall of 1918, and as a first duty we proudly entered the dissecting room, from which we emerged nine months later with a full knowledge of the anatomy of the human body. Various and interesting were our experiences during the year, and we worked long and tediously to overcome the obstacles we met. After all, we were victorious and at the end of the year we jotted down enough information to satisfy our professors.

In their attainments the Class of '20 is unusually fortunate. Besides the natural attainment of diligent students who work in and about the Alumni Building six to eight hours a day, six days to the week, we have become popular on the campus and in college organizations. The full share of college honors belong to us, and it might be of interest to note that Tatum was President of the Junior Class, and Liles, Society Day Orator. Besides these mentioned, there are numerous other achievements in the different phases of college life which we could mention but for lack of space.

In the field of our own profession we have delved deeply. I mention a few of our discoveries. "Staphlococci" Woody has located by means of a powerful X-ray a germ of the hyphomycetes type, which accounts for Bridger's strong affinity for the fairer sex during his spare moments. Tatum has discovered a formula from which a dose can be made that will get a person out of the bed before ten A. M. The Wilkinsons claim to have discovered the cause of short statures and are purported to be themselves the first patients, while Chaplin, Wright, and Lancaster have made some very important discoveries as to the cause of Warrick's lazy disposition. Culler has assumed the role of an expert practitioner and has recommended to Wright a drug which Wyatt invented and which he claims will lower one's voice at least two octaves. Blackmon is supposed to have found a way to learn without studying. Liles has just finished his mechanical device for mounting slides, which will surpass the old method; and Stout has taught Woody how to grow two different organisms on the same culture without causing a mixture.

We can only look back with pride on our achievements at Wake Forest, and now that our days here are over we feel a sincere regret in leaving. As a class we have stood together and have held always a kindred interest in our fellow students. With no exceptions, we have accomplished what other classes have, and have we not succeeded, besides, in getting out of society and gymnasium?

As we leave to take up our studies in other institutions, the expressed wish of every member is that the succeeding class will not lower the high standard which we have set.

MINISTERIAL CLASS

Ministerial Class History

THE Ministerial Class of Wake Forest College consists of approximately one hundred men, and is therefore the largest departmental class in college. The virility and versatility of its membership, the peculiar difficulties which it faces, and the unusual privileges which it enjoys, make it at once the most unique and interesting class in college. Aside from the regular class work of the individual members, the class meets once each week to hear lectures and addresses by various members of the faculty on subjects pertaining more directly to the ministry. Prof. F. K. Pool is our regular leader at these meetings, and has himself delivered many helpful messages to us during the year.

There are three men with whom most of us have been associated that we shall particularly remember. One is Dr. Royall, our fatherly interpreter, who, though physically old and weak, is still mentally and spiritually alert; another is Dr. Cullom, whose deep spirituality, sober wisdom and kindly advice have aided us much; and the third is Prof. Pool, our congenial friend, a man of vigorous enthusiasm, with a keen insight into things practical as well as things spiritual.

Our class is composed of real men. Very few, if any, are effeminate. Nor is there a recluse among us, or one who has the "holier-than-thou" attitude. Our fellows have mingled freely with the fellows of other classes and have engaged in all wholesome college activities. Athletes, students, writers, speakers and musicians may be found in our midst. It is our purpose to break down whatever barriers may have hitherto existed between the ministerial class and other classes in college.

The present ministerial class has played a worthy part in making the session of 1919-'20 successful. Several of our best fellows are graduating this year and will go forth, some to higher institutions of learning and some into active Christian service. Others of us will return next session, and, together with the new men, strive to carry on the work of the classes.

TEACHERS' CLASS

Teachers' Class History

BRIEF but great is the history of the present Teachers' Class of Wake Forest College. In comparison with the other classes of the college, our class is rather small. Deficient in quantity, it is not lacking in quality. Heretofore the Teachers' Class has sent out many prominent instructors, for are not many institutions of the state conducted by them, and do not many of the colleges of the South have on their faculties graduates of the W. F. C. Teachers' Class? The present class is not an exception; in it are men of determination and ability in the task of fostering the ideals of our nation. So zealous are the members of the present class in the desire to be fully prepared to serve mankind that they have organized a Teachers' Society. It is the purpose of this society to keep in touch with all the educational activities of the state. Twice a week the society meets, and at every meeting there is present someone well informed in educational work to give counsel and aid. Thus the members are greatly benefited.

The activities of the class are many. In every phase of college life our men may be found. In every branch of athletics our class furnishes its share of men. In the literary realm our men have carried off honors. In the class room they rank high. Some are members of the scrub faculty, and this year there will be some to graduate with Cum Laude and others with Magna Cum Laude.

The motto of our college, "Pro Humanitate," is the motto of our class.

Football, 1919

URING the first of the football season the Wake Forest men encountered Heisman's veterans, and rightly received the name of "Wildcats" of North Carolina by holding their formidable opponents to two touchdowns. Their old rivals, the University of North Carolina, were held to a lone touchdown. The Baptists suffered a decline in the game with Furman, but came back strong by beating the Sewanee team of Portsmouth, 39 to 3. In the next game the Wake Foresters pranced through the Quaker eleven for a total of 65 points.

With a record none too brilliant, it was expected that the Wake Foresters would be overwhelmed by the West Raleigh collegians in the annual Thanksgiving game. The football world was surprised, however, to learn at the end of the third quarter that the State College eleven had been held to a tie. It was in this game that Captain Rabenhorst, the stellar Baptist halfback, broke the world's punting record.

Basketball, 1920

ALTHOUGH not putting out a championship basketball team, and not making the usual record in the winter sport that Wake Forest has maintained during the past, the season may be regarded as a very successful one. The quintet that represented the Old Gold and Black for the year 1920 was in most respects at a disadvantage, in that it was made up of all new men, with the exception of one letter man.

Due to the influenza epidemic, the number of games was lessened considerably, since the entire Virginia trip was necessarily cancelled. Of the eleven games played, Wake Forest won eight and piled up a total of 359 points, against 233 points of their opponents.

The credit of the team's record this season may be attributed to the efficient coaching of Coach "Bill" Holding and to the hard training of the entire quintet. Prospects for the next several years are unusually good, in view of the fact that the squad is losing only one varsity man, Captain Feezor, who has been a member of the basketball team for four years and piloted his squad very successfully this year.

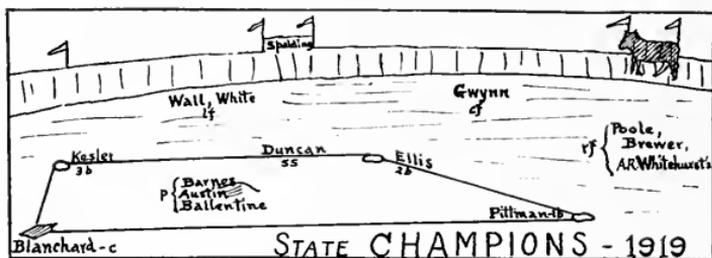

The record is as follows:

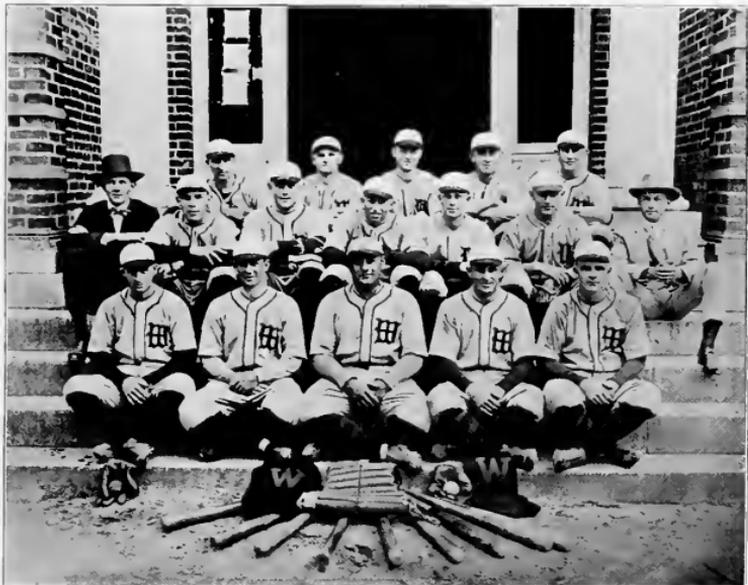

|                       |     |  |    |
|-----------------------|-----|--|----|
| Wake Forest . . . . . | 30; | Durham Y. M. C. A. . . . .                     | 43 |

Baseball, 1919

THE all-state intercollegiate baseball championship came back to us last year after an absence of six years—the first time since the phenomenal team of 1913 represented the college. Besides defeating every college team in the state, the Baptists' heavy slugging was the cause of regret to several city and camp teams and to Richmond College of Virginia.

In spite of post-war conditions and disadvantages, Coach I. E. Carlyle put out a winning combination with teamwork that spread wonder and consternation among its opponents. Among a team of heavy and consistent sluggers and excellent "pill" gatherers, the dependable pitching of Sax Barnes and the home runs of Blanchard were the outstanding features.

Tennis, 1919-'20

WAKE FOREST had this year one of the best tennis teams in the history of the college, a team that was not only the best of any collegiate pair in the state, but also the championship team of the entire state. In October the Wake Forest team won the state title in doubles in the North Carolina State Tennis Tournament held in Greensboro, and to the team, as state champions, was awarded the big loving cup offered by the Greensboro Chamber of Commerce. The cup must be won for three consecutive years to become the personal property of a team. The Wake Forest men this year won the first leg on the cup and had their names inscribed upon it.

The success of the team this year was due to the ability of Edgar E. Folk and Vann B. Stringfield. Both proved themselves real artists in wielding a racquet. A Greensboro paper, in reporting the second day of the tournament, had this to say of them: "The work of this pair of young players from the student body of Wake Forest College has been excellent. They have impelled general consideration in the outcome of the tournament. The pair are of about equal power on the court at the present time and they mate excellently."

The final match of the tournament, which was with a pair from Thomasville, was hotly contested and was only won by the Wake Forest men after being carried four sets. The scores were 7-5, 6-4, 5-7, and 6-3. The placements of Stringfield and the serving of Folk were largely responsible for their triumph. Stringfield was officially credited with forty-one placements, while the Thomasville pair only broke through Folk's service once during the entire match of forty-three games.

In the singles, also, the Wake Foresters won distinction in the state tournament, Folk fighting his way to the finals and Stringfield to the semi-finals.

A number of intercollegiate matches have been played this year by the team, in all of them the pair showing the same form and ability which they exhibited in their successful fight for the state title.

WHAT were such an annual without its Section of Beauty? A rose bush without its rosebuds, and a sky without its stars. Of beauty man has ever been a captive—a willing captive. And before this Section of Beauty, chosen from the heart of the Old North State—where beauty abounds such as seems to be drawn, as the poet puts it, by love's own hands; by Love himself in love—we feel that it cannot be idolatry to kneel and there before its shrine claim it as the fairest that any state can boast and the most lovely that ever graced the pages of an annual.

The Man Who Won

EDGAR E. FOLK

LAWRENCE GORDON came downstairs a little late for breakfast. It was a morning in late August—August, the month of the sun-god's wrath. When he glowers down on the already hot cobblestones and macadam of the cities with a fierceness encouraged by the sight of the cowering human forms slinking from awning to awning on the sunny side of the street, or crowding the shady side until it is impossible to make progress. When all the denizens of our inland towns, who can get away, flee from the sweltering heat of their homes. And these fortunates flock to the seashore and the mountain resorts, while those who are left behind to brave the heat waves dancing above the pavements, seek frequent respites in the parks, at the country clubs, in the country at the ends of car lines, where perhaps some breeze might pity them enough to fan them.

Gordon had remained in the city this first week of his vacation to play in the city tennis tournament at the Mavis Country Club. Like every young man, he wanted to win a big loving-cup to exhibit and to show to his friends as a trophy of his athletic skill. He had thought his chances of winning so good that he had been willing to slice his vacation in half and to spend the first portion of it in the oven of the city until the tournament was completed.

It had ended yesterday. Gordon had lost. He had won his way to the finals. There he had been disgracefully defeated the afternoon before by a man almost old enough to be his father.

Gordon walked into the sitting room and picked up the morning paper. Glancing with unseeing eyes over the first page with its heavy, black headlines declaring social disorders, a murder, a new national law passed by Congress, and other "first page stories," he turned to the sporting section. There his eye came to rest upon one headline:

"OLD MASTER" WINS TENNIS TOURNAMENT

AFTER LOSING FIRST SET, DEFEATS LAWRENCE
GORDON BY STEADY PLAYING

Gordon looked up from the paper a moment and a peculiar smile took possession of his mouth. Then he lowered his eyes to the paper again and read:

Settling down to a wonderfully steady game, after losing the first set to his dashing young opponent by the score of 6-1, the "Old Master," Henry Forsythe, defeated Lawrence Gordon in the finals of the City Tennis Tournament at the Mavis Country Club yesterday. He allowed Gordon only six games in the last three sets, winning the match with scores of 1-6, 6-3, 6-2, and 6-1.

The result of the match came as a surprise to the spectators, who had expected Gordon to win from the older man easily. A great deal of astonishment was expressed in the stands when Gordon, after winning the first set brilliantly, seemed to become afflicted with stage fright before the large gallery, and completely reversing his form, grew wild as a March hare with his strokes. Many of his attempted smashing returns in the last sets were played into the top of the backstop.

Forsythe, the "Old Master," as he is known to tennis lovers of the city, was rushed completely off his feet in the opening games. Always depending on steadiness and accuracy, rather than hard strokes, to win, he found his lobs and chops smashed for placements by his opponent, who took the net at every opportunity.

This steadiness, however, told on Gordon after the first set, and with the beginning of the second, his sudden reversal of form set in. His service grew erratic, and he made numbers of double faults. His returns grew wilder with each game, and forsaking his net game, he tried back-court play.

The "Old Master" pressed his advantage, playing with a precision and accuracy rarely seen on the Mavis Club courts. . . .

Gordon unconsciously crushed the paper, as the muscles of his hand involuntarily contracted. So he had really put it across. He had deceived them. They had called it stage-fright, wildness and off-form. The smile deepened.

Then suddenly he frowned as he thought of that first set. What had gotten into him, anyhow? Why, he had almost beat the Old Master. He had almost kept him from getting the cup. Perhaps the paper was right, after all. He had been affected by the large crowd. But the effect was not akin to stage-fright. It was exhilaration, that joy of putting one's all into the game, which is felt in playing before spectators. A thrill passed over him even now as he thought of the large gallery of spectators which had gathered to watch the match.

Then again a scowl, almost of anger, crossed his face as he thought of that set when he had allowed the Old Master only one game. He didn't know a mere crowd could affect him so. He had lost all control of himself and had played as he didn't know he had the ability to play. And then in the next set his "sudden reversal of form set in. His service grew erratic. . . . His returns grew wilder with each game. . . ."

His thought shifted back to the starting of the match. Only vaguely in the back-ground had he seen the spectators. But he had felt them. The mere knowledge that those hundreds of pairs of eyes were watching his every movement was an inspiration. His whole being had responded to the stimulus, and everything else was forgotten except that he was facing an opponent in the finals, a player on the opposite side of the net whom he must beat. He forgot who his adversary was.

He had realized with a thrill that his service was working almost perfectly. He shot it from corner to corner. Many of the services went for "aces." And if the balls were returned, he was at the net to smash them for easy points. His opponent could not get one by him at the net. His return strokes were working equally as well. Never had he seen his chop clipping the net so prettily. And his Lawford was working to the right, left, down the sidelines, in the center, cross-court, anywhere.

The set had ended quickly. The Old Master had had luck in securing four consecutive points for a game. As they were changing courts, Gordon passed the older man, and they stood for a moment face to face near the net post as the referee was tightening the net.

The young man sitting in the chair with the paper in his hand shuddered as he recalled that look of the Old Master then. As long as he lived he would never forget that expression. On the face of the man was written that wistful despair and hopelessness which is in the countenance of a man who has longed for something all his life and then realizes that it cannot be his. That look seared itself into the younger man's heart, and indelibly stamped itself upon his soul.

Forsythe had turned quickly and walked over to the bench under the stands and had begun feeling for something in the pocket of his sweater. Gordon lived over again the minute he had passed until the Old Master's return. It is strange how much of one's past life and experience can be crowded at times into a single brief minute.

His memory leaped back with a flash over the entire period of his friendship with the Old Master, this man whom now he was defeating in the finals of the city tennis tournament. There sprang before his eyes the first time he had seen him. He was a kid barely big enough to hold up a tennis racket, and he had wandered on the tennis court where Forsythe was playing. He had loved the man from the first time he had then looked into his big, kindly eyes. He was back at the court next afternoon. Soon there grew up between the man and the boy one of those puzzling friendships which sometimes come to a childless man in early middle age and a boy of nine or ten.

That summer the man had begun teaching him how to play tennis. He showed him how to hold his racket, how to wait for the balls to come to him, instead of running up under them and having them bounce over his head. He taught him how to count, how to stand to serve and to receive, and how to play at the net. And above all, he had instilled in him a true love for the game and a desire to play it and to see it played only in a clean, sportsmanly way, for he taught him those were the principles on which it was founded.

That summer, one afternoon—he remembered it was a scorching August day, as this one—the man had rested with the boy in the shade. And as they sat side by side, the worshipping little boy and his hero, the man had told him his secret. He had confided that he had one ambition that was wound about his soul. He wanted to win the city tennis tournament. He wanted a silver loving-cup as a souvenir of his prowess with the racket.

That was sixteen summers ago. And the man had never realized his ambition. He had been in his middle thirties then, and now he had almost given up hope of ever attaining his desire. Each year he had entered the tournament, and each year he had been eliminated in the early rounds with a regularity which would have discouraged a man with an ambition less deeply rooted and ingrained in his nature. He had grown now into almost an old man, and yet he had never surrendered to the fate which seemed to have decreed that he should never gain his goal. His friends at the country club where he still played regularly had begun calling him the Old Master, and the name was adopted by tennis fans over the city who watched him enter each annual tournament. They said it now with a mingled feeling of reverence and pity for the old man who still tried to play a young man's game in which he had never been proficient.

He had entered the tournament this year as usual. Luck had put him in the half of the tournament which had the poorer players, so that he had only to receive a few defaults and to defeat a few dubs to get to the finals. Surely fate was with him at last. In the finals! If he did not win this year, he never would.

Gordon had been placed in the harder half of the players and he had had to fight hard to win his way to this championship match. Now there was nothing between him and the cup except an old man whom he could beat easily. The wine of success went to his head and he was caught in the grip of a drunken stupor in which he lost all sense of the proportion of things and knew only that he wanted to win that cup.

The look in the Old Master's face had been like a bucket of cold water dashed in his face. He came to himself with a shock. He realized with a start that he was taking from this old man—from this man who had taught him to play, and who had made him what player he was now—the one thing he had ever asked from the gods of athletics. The thought of what he was doing made him turn cold from head to foot. And the thought of what might have happened if he had not realized when he did—

The return of the Old Master had interrupted his train of thoughts. The referee had called for the beginning of the second set. Gordon played as one in a daze. He must not win. He could not. But how was he going to avoid it now? Could he keep from winning? He broke out in a sweat of agony, which passed for a mere perspiration caused by the hot day and what the paper had called "stage-fright." He wanted to quit. But he collected his thoughts sufficiently to realize that that would defeat his purpose. The Old Master would not have the match that way. The match would merely be postponed for a day to allow him to recover.

"Love-two. Forsythe leading," called the scorekeeper.

He realized then that in his daze he had been playing as badly as before he had been playing well. That was his cue. He must make them think he had lost his nerve before the crowd, that the Old Master's steady playing had tired him out.

The load of anguish rolling from him made him play even wilder. He lunged at the next ball. It went over the backstop. He could hardly keep from laughing outright. He had won the biggest tournament in which he should ever play.

The Old Master was taking advantage of his opportunity. Rather, he was pressing it, before his opponent might settle down. That made it easier for him. The old man played his sure strokes, and played them safely. As the younger man grew wilder, increasing confidence came for Forsythe, and he played a "wonderfully steady game," as the sport writer had said, "with a precision and accuracy rarely seen on the Mavis Club courts."

Gordon got three games of the second set. He was afraid to take less. But in the third and fourth sets as his wildness and reversal in form seemingly increased, he allowed the Old Master more and more of the points. He lost a number of love games. In the third set he took two games; in the fourth only one.

Gordon could picture to himself now the surprise and astonishment which had come over the spectators at his erratic playing. And when a number of his friends came to speak to him after the match, he could read in their eyes not only surprise but a sort of mild scorn and contempt for a man who should become afflicted with stage-fright in the finals of a tournament match and lose it as disgracefully as he had done. For an instant a hot flash passed over him.

Then he had glanced over to where the crowd had clustered around Forsythe. At that moment there came a slight break in the crowd, which gave him a momentary view of the Old Master's face. And he knew in that instant that for the price he had paid he had gotten a bargain, that he had gotten far more than double value received.

Now this morning as he read over the paper, and saw the account of his "stage-fright," it was brought to him that but one more obstacle remained in the way of complete victory for him on the day before. He had worried all night lest he had not properly acted his part of a player who blows up with stage-fright. He saw after the match that he had deceived his friends. And he knew now that he had misled the spectators and the sport writer. There was but one other whom he must have deceived. Had he fooled the Old Master? Had he slipped it over on the one who knew him on the court better than any other man, and who knew that he was hardly likely to blow up in a tournament as he had done?

The telephone rang. Gordon answered it. From the receiver came the voice of the Old Master.

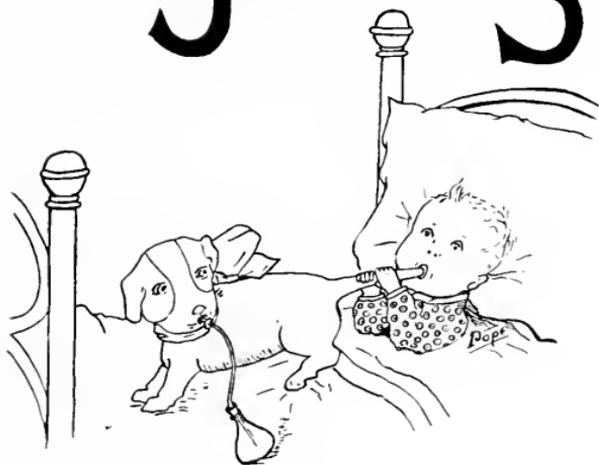

"That you, Gordon?" it asked. "Lawrence, I've called you up to 'cuss you out' for that playing you did yesterday. I thought I had trained you better than that.

"Why, I was ashamed of you," the Old Master continued, but Gordon noted that there was exultation and laughter in his voice. "And if I ever see you play like that again, I am going to disown you. Your blow-up certainly came as a surprise, most of all to me. But don't feel too badly over it, my boy. The best of us are subject to stage-fright at times.

"Why, what's the matter?" he asked suddenly, as Gordon broke out in convulsions of laughter.

"I was just congratulating myself on winning," Gordon shouted into the mouthpiece. "I mean, congratulating you."

Entering the World Electrical

THE graduate of today enters a world electrical.

Gathered from the distant waterfalls or generated by the steam turbine, electric power is transmitted to the busiest city or the smallest country place.

Through the co-ordination of inventive genius with engineering and manufacturing resources, the General Electric Company has fostered and developed to a high state of perfection these and numerous other applications.

And so electricity, scarcely older than the graduate of today, appears in a practical, well developed service on every hand.

Recognize its power, study its applications to your life's work, and utilize it to the utmost for the benefit of all mankind.
